FAITHFULL GIRL CHASED BRITON, ARTIST CLAIMS

London Man Says He Will Give Name to Police if They Desire.

DENIES ANY AFFAIR WITH SLAIN BEAUTY

Also "Hints" at Person Who Caused Her Trouble in U. S.; Quiz Lags.

London, June 14 (U.P.).—Rudolph Haybrook, an artist with whom Miss Starr Faithfull, believed murdered in New York, knew in London, said tonight he could supply to proper authorities "the name of the man Miss Faithfull was continually chasing in London and also the name of the man who was the cause of all the trouble in the United States."

Mr. Haybrook told the United Press Miss Faithfull came to his studio here after she had discovered that he knew the man "she had been chasing for more than a year."

Mr. Haybrook, questioned about a letter in which Miss Faithfull described him as "a bit too rough," said:

"Those were absolutely my words to describe Starr. They obviously were used by Starr to extenuate her own conduct when the landlord complained of the noise.

Met Starr in 1929.

"This is exactly my relation with Starr, and it can be substantiated by my landlord and my secretary.

"I met her in August, 1929, when she was brought to my studio in Gower street, Bloomsbury, by a friend who had met her at Piccadilly. She discovered I knew the man she had been chasing for more than a year and thereafter Starr haunted my studio.

"I can not understand why mud is being thrown at me, when I did more than any one else in Britain to keep Starr's name clean, solely out of respect for her and her family, who are friends of mine.

"I would like to emphasize that Mr. Faithfull wrote me December 29, 1930, thanking me for being extremely good to his wife and two daughters when they were embarrassed financially while in London.

Can Supply Names of Men.

"I can supply the name of the man Starr was chasing, but only to the proper authorities. He is a professional man and, therefore, I do not desire to reveal his name to the press. I also can supply the name of the man who was the cause of all the trouble in the United States and the name of the peer's son who knew and aided the Faithfulls in London.

"I emphatically deny the story in the British press that I ever mentioned anything regarding a $25,000 settlement case in which Starr was involved. I can not understand the origin of the story."

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—The first week of the investigation into the death of Starr Faithfull came to an end today with every major point of the mystery still unsolved.

Even though dozens of clews have turned up, each to be discarded in its turn, police today were reluctant to abandon their theory of murder by drowning. The theory is based on the fact that the shoulders were bruised, the lungs filled with sand, and her lingerie was missing when Miss Faithfull's body was found in the surf at Long Beach last Monday.

No Marked Progress Made.

Inspector Harold R. King, of the Nassau County police, said no marked progress had been made in the investigation over the week-end, but he expected a renewal of activity when County Attorney Elvin N. Edwards returned to his office tomorrow.

Over the week-end Mr. Edwards has been studying a document of several pages, presumably written by Miss Faithfull and relating to acquaintances who might shed some light on the mystery.

Inspector King said that in the week's investigation no conclusive evidence has been unearthed to support the theory of murder. Miss Faithfull's movements from the time she left her home in Greenwich Village, June 5, and the finding of her body are unknown, despite the fact that several people reported having seen "a girl

Refusal of Capone Offer of Millions Is Taken to Indicate No-Compromise Attitude in Widening Activities Against Racketeers.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Government has adopted a no-compromise attitude in its widening activities against racketeers.

Indictment of Al Capone under income tax laws, after attempts by his attorneys to compromise the case, has revealed that investigating officials are vigorously pursuing President Hoover's direction last year to assist "in overcoming the hideous gangster and corrupt control of some local governments."

Capone's indictment on six felony and two misdemeanor counts for failure to file returns made it apparent that earlier efforts of his attorneys to reach a settlement had failed. An offer of several millions is reported to have been made to the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Meanwhile, racketeers in New York and Detroit have been made the immediate objective of Federal agents, who achieved success in Chicago. Later, investigations are planned for St. Louis, Cleveland, Philadelphia and other cities.

But the Government will force a showdown on the criminal indictments returned against Capone after months of investigation. These now include 5,000 counts of prohibition violations.

Elmer L. Irey, chief of the Internal Revenue Bureau's special intelligence section, which conducted the Capone investigation, left Saturday night for Chicago to confer with agents on the tax prosecution and investigations still in progress.

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—The "untouchables," eight young prohibition agents whose zeal and incorruptibility defied danger and lavish temptation to pile up evidence for the conspiracy indictments against "Scarface Al" Capone and his booze syndicate, today received their reward.

It was a declaration by United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, director of the Govern-

BRUENING IS BACKED BY CENTRIST PARTY

Powerful Labor and Industrial Interests Show Faith in Chancellor.

Hildesheim, Germany, June 14 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening gained another point in his battle for preservation of his government today by getting his own party to back his program in a meeting of party leaders. The Centrist party at the meeting adopted a resolution of "full confidence" in Bruening and his cabinet.

The fact that the chancellor can now return t oBerlin with this support is considered of great significance, since the big Catholic Centrist party is made up of both the powerful labor and industrialist wings.

That these two groups, with divergent interests and each having felt the pinch of the recent emergency decrees, have united behind the chancellor is taken as showing not only the feeling of confidnece in the man, bu talso an increase in his prestige in the eyes of the nation.

Berlin, June 14 (A.P.).—Steps will be taken as soon as possible to obtain a revision of the Young plan, Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and two of his cabinet members told the German people in political addresses today. They also declared that the emergency tax decrees recently promulgated were absolutely necessary to balance the country's budget.

Addressing briefly a meeting of Catholic workers at a Centrist party meeting at Hildesheim, the chancellor appealed to his hearers to accept the decrees, saying "the future of the nation is at stake and we must all be prepared to make sacrifices."

Also addressing the Centrist meeting, Minister of Interior Wirth said

Spain Holds Primate Prisoner in Convent

Madrid, June 14 (A.P.).—Cardinal Primate Segura, of Spain, has been placed under arrest by the government, it was learned tonight and is being kept at a convent near Guadalajara, with orders not to leave until further instructoins are given him.

From well-informed sources it was learned that, although the first intention was to escort the cardinal to the border, Minister of Interior Maura countermanded this proposal and insisted on waiting for a government decision.

CAB DRIVER'S BODY IS SOUGHT IN RIVER

Capital Man Disappears While Swimming Near Cobb Island.

Authorities of Charles County, Md., last night were searching the Potomac River in the vicinity of Cobb Island for the body of Stephen Kendrick, 29 years old, a taxi driver, of 638 I street northeast, who, it was said, disappeared from a party of swimmers and has not been seen since yesterday afternoon.

According to witnesses, Kendrick, in company with Mrs. J. E. Gothner and Mrs. Lathan Pumphrey, both of Washington, had been diving from a rowboat about 100 yards off the Maryland shore. As Kendrick dived for the last time in 12 feet of water, he failed to reappear on the surface.

His companions summoned aid. After more than an hour's futile search county authorities were notified.

Mr. Kendrick, who is married and has two children, gained publicity last December, when he was shot by a "fare" during an argument over the amoutn of a taxi bill. He had lived at the I street address oly a short time.

2 Dead, Third Hurt By Bolt at Airport

Crowd Flees in Panic as Lightning Hits Near Outdoor Tables.

Kansas City, Mo., June 14 (U.P.).—A bolt of lightning struck the Kansas City Municipal Airport late today, killed two men outright, injured a third and threw a crowd of 200 persons into a panic.

The lightning, striking the ground near a group of tables in front of the field refreshment stand, killed Anthony Veneziano, of Chicago, and R. P. Mogaard, of Minneapolis, and injured Robert Jones, of Kansas City, Kans.

Jones was revived at a hospital. Spectators broke and ran for shelter of the airport buildings in wild disorder. Airplanes were flying on regular schedule, despite the threatening sky.

Wickersham Crime Survey To Be Finished Just in Time

Last Month's Rush Will Barely Enable Completion of Report Before Commission Officially Goes Out of Existence July 1.

(Associated Press.)

A victory for the Wickersham commission in its race to complete in the seventeen remaining days of its life the most extensive single survey of crime ever undertaken was forecast yesterday from within its membership.

Although reports on eight major investigations remained in the commission's hands yesterday—24 months and seventeen days after the survey was begun—it was said authoritatively that all would be delivered to President Hoover or into the hands of the Government printer by July 1. On that date the commission officially ceases to exist.

It was predicted, too, that the commission's purse would not be turned back to the Government empty. It could not be estimated how much of the $500,000 appropriation will remain, however, since expenses for future printing remain to be deducted.

Opinions gathered yesterday represented a considerable change from the consensus as to conditions a month or more ago. At that time—with only the prohibition report out of its hands—it was the private view of more than one member that their calendar would be almost hopelessly jammed as July 1 approached.

Even with this danger apparently averted, however, it was pointed out there remained small possibility that more than three of the pending crime

DAVIS ATTACKS SLANDERERS OF NATION'S GREAT

154TH ANNIVERSARY OF FLAG CELEBRATED

Ceremonies Held at Sylvan Theater and on Steps of Capitol Building.

The 154th anniversary of the Stars the Capital with services of tribute and Stripes was observed yesterday in to those who made the Flag possible.

Senator Davis of Pennsylvania, in one of the ceremonies, took occasion to score "sewer tongued orators and literary ghouls" for slanders on national heroes and ideals.

Speaking at the annual Flag exercises of the Washington Elks in the Sylvan Theater at the base of the Washington Monument, Senator Davis employed the Welch word "Breuad" to express his condemnation of speaking and writing "Mudslingers." He defined the word as meaning "a worm that eats the flesh of the dead." He said, "we have ripples of un-Americanism which are sponsored by ingrates who partake of our national hospitality and economic opportunities and who bite the hand that feeds them through the medium of whispered innuedos aimed against our national ideals and our great men."

Finds no English Word.

"No word," he continued, "in the English language fittingly describes my contempt for such vile creatures. Hence, I shall use the Welch word "Breuad" to classify them. These blatherskites and scandalmongers at intermitten times rise out of the gutters of their inspiration and tthrow mud upon the character and monuments of the notables of our Nation.

"But the sun of truth soon bakes this mud of slander and it crumbles into oblivion, leaving the memory and the monuments of our notables untarnished; in fact, more luminous after each slanderous blast delivered against them."

Another ceremony on the east steps of the Capitol was addressed by former Gov. David W. Davis of Idaho and John H. Byers, former member of the Legislature of Illinois.

Every School Should Study Flag.

"Flag Day should be every day in the hearts of the American people," said Gov. Davis. He continued by saying that the American flag can never be hung out too often and that a study of the flag, what it represents, what is behind it and what is before it, should be part of the curriculum of every institution in this country.

"If there are any people in this country," said the governor, "who do not like our Government, our institu-

ARMED MIGHT OF U. S. BARED TO AID PARLEY

Detailed Data Sent to League of Nations at Its Request.

OTHER LANDS ASKED TO HEED EXAMPLE

Stimson Voices Hope Course Will Encourage Powers to Support Meeting.

(Associated Press.)

Acting to encourage world-wide preparations for the League of Nations' general disarmament conference, the American Government has submitted to the league data setting forth in detail the total land, sea and air forces of the United States.

In preparation for the conference, scheduled for February next at Geneva, the league requested similar information from the other powers which will participate.

The American information was prepared under direction of Hugh S. Gibson, American Ambassador to Belgium and probable delegate to the conference, who has been conferring for nearly a month with President Hoover.

Stimson's Formal Note.

Ignoring reports from Europe that a move might be made to have the conference postponed, the State Department hastened to lay the data before the league. High administration officials expressed the opinion last night that recent developments in the disarmament situation made it appear that a postponement was unlikely.

Transmitting the requested information to the League of Nations, Secretary of State Stimson, in a formal note, expressed the "hope that other nations may thus be encouraged to lay their figures before the public without delay." He further asked that the figures of the United States be made public and distributed among the other powers.

America's total land effectives as given in the data, are 139,957, including 13,080 officers, as compared with a legal strength for the Army under the national defense act of 1922 of 17,728 officers, 640 warrant officers and 280,000 enlisted men. The National Guard, not included in the total forces, was placed at "10,774 average daily effectives," because it "is not available to the Federal Government without measures of mobilization."

Naval Aviation Ahead.

The total naval force strength was placed at 109,886, including 10,420 officers of the Navy, 1,030 officers and 17,500 men of the Marine Corps. The Marines were listed as of "average strength." Both the Army and Navy were listed as having no "formations organized on a military basis" capable of use "without measures of mobilization." The Army's 22,893 reserve officers called into training service during the fiscal year 1930 were com-

10-Year Plan to Meet Red 'Peril' Suggested

"Warm-Blooded Idealism" Is Needed to Combat "Cold-Blooded Communist Program," Matthew Woll Tells Industrialists.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—A call to American industrialists to consider the feasibility of formulating a "warm-blooded ten-year plan of democratic idealism" to meet "the cold-blooded Communist five-year plan" was issued today by James W. Gerard, chairman of the commission on industrial inquiry of the National Civic Federation.

Mr. Gerard acted on the suggestion of Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor and acting president of the National Civic Federation, who, in a letter to Mr. Gerard, declared the time had come for American industry to map out a ten-year program in an effort to eliminate recurrence of economic depression and instability.

The former Ambassador to Germany, in a circular letter to more than 500 manufacturers, finance and labor organizations has proposed that a congress of American industry be held soon to determine how best to act upon Mr. Woll's suggestions.

"The labor leader's plans," Mr. Gerard states, "may well change the whole course of our national history and affect for all time the well-being of our great Nation and its people."

Mr. Gerard asks industrialists to make known their attitude to the proposed congress.

"Economic readjustment is as necessary as the air we breathe," Mr. Woll wrote in his letter to Mr. Gerard, "if our Nation is to perform the first essentials of nationhood.

"The great depression now upon us, after two years has forced us to the conclusion that the time for action has arrived, so that the hopes of men may be translated into deeds of a character that will maintain for America that magnificent leadership in the whole field of human well-being that was asserted first in 1776 and that has never been lost.

"It is important that we strive to create working machinery to promote social safety and economic stability. * * *

"I see no sufficient gain to be derived out of anything less than a tremendous effort. I see no sufficient good to be gained through creeping with undue caution. The trials of our time do not permit long waiting.

"We need for example to meet the cold-blooded Communist five-year plan with a warm-blooded ten-year plan of democratic idealism woven into the very pattern of our national fabric. We need to move with giant strides to put 6,000,000 Americans to work, to start our machinery, to take out of our national economy the awful loss and pain of too much or too little.

"We need to take steps that will take as much account of the shameful fact that our average industrial

20,000 CHINESE DIE AS REDS HOLD SWAY

Nationalists Mobilize Army of 200,000 to Battle Communist Bands.

Shanghai, Monday, June 15 (A.P.).—The Nationalist government admitted today that 20,000 soldiers had been slaughtered or otherwise disposed of by Communist bands in Kiangsi, Hunan and northern Fukien provinces recently.

All semblance of order in those provinces has virtually disappeared, officials said, and Chinese and foreigners alike were attempting to evacuate the district. Some, however, were marooned by the roving bands and unable to leave.

The government said 200,000 troops had been poured into Kiangsi Province and a large number into Hunan and Fukien provinces to stop the depredations.

No attempt was made by the government to ascertain the number of peasants killed in the Communist movement, which within the last year has reduced the Yangtze Valley to virtual chaos, paralyzing trade, reducing people to beggary and actively opposed the authority of Nanking.

Outstanding Nationalist leaders regard the Communist menace as the most serious which has yet threatened China's stormy revolutionary movement.

Chiang Kai-Shek, generalissimo of Nationalist forces, who last week announced he would lead the fight against the bandit and red hordes, said today he expected to leave within three days to personally conduct the campaign. Although not underestimating the difficulty of the task he has undertaken, Chiang said he expected to curb the reds within three months. The government campaign of the last eight months has met with no great success.

Gen. Chen Ming-Shu, ousted governor of Canton, who returned to China last week after fleeing to the security of Japan when the southern insurgent movement became openly hostile to the regime of President Chiang Kai-Shek, announced his

RIVAL OF COAL UNION PLANS NEW STRIKES

Ohio Organization Meeting Votes to Call Walkout in West Virginia.

St. Clairsville, Ohio, June 14 (A.P.).—The National Miners Union, leading a strike of coal miners in southeastern Ohio, held a formal organization meeting at Dillonvale today and announced the strike would be extended into the nonunion West Virginia coal field tomorrow.

Before the meeting the strikers, numbering about 2,000, had been refused permission to gather in an auditorium at Bellaire. Arriving at the hall, they found it heavily guarded by police headed by Chief of Police Francis Moran and armed with guns and tear gas bombs. The fire department had stationed a pumper engine ready to break up the meeting.

After appealing in vain to the mayor, the strikers dispersed without disorder and divided into two sections, one group going to Dillonvale, where the organization strike meeting was held. The others met at Wegee, between Bellaire and Dillonvale, where they joined in a picnic sponsored by the International Defense League to assist in raising funds to spread the strike.

The meeting at Dillonvale was addressed by William Z. Foster, secretary of the Trade Unity League, an organization opposed to the American Federation of Labor. The National Miners Union was organized to supplant the United Mine Workers of America.

Each of the 29 mines in southeastern Ohio was represented, marking the first complete organization of the strike movement in Ohio. Leaders announced the National Miners Union would establish headquarters at Bridgeport, Ohio, from where it will direct its fight in Ohio and West Virginia.

Later Foster went to the Wegee meeting and announced that the strike was being spread into West Virginia and that a meeting would

Wife of Cartoonist Robbed Of $51,200 Gems by Bandits

Automobile of Sidney Smith, Creator of the Gumps, Held Up in Chicago by Armed Thugs in Evening Clothes and Jewelry Taken.

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Two bandits in evening clothes held up Sidney Smith, newspaper cartoonist, and his wife early today and took jewelry valued at $51,200.

As the Smith automobile, bearing the couple to their North Side apartment, halted for a traffic signal on North Michigan avenue, two men, both armed, entered it. One, covering the chauffeur, Charles Cannon, with a gun, ordered him to drive a short distance into a cross street. The other, hiding his face with a handkerchief, shoved his revolver against Mrs. Smith.

The bandits then seized a diamond necklace, four diamond bracelets, two diamond rings and a wrist watch with diamond-studded strap from Mrs. Smith.

When they demanded a white sapphire diamond ring, Smith protested:

"That's a good-luck piece. It belongs to Andy Gump."

"Oh, you're Smith," the bandit said. "Well, we need it more than you do."

The pair permitted Mrs. Smith to retain a diamond wedding ring, carefully replacing it on her finger after removing other rings.

After ordering the Smiths out of their car, the robbers locked it and threw the key away.

They then fled in their own car, waiting nearby.

EIGHT RESCUED IN DISASTER TO FRENCH OUTING

Squall Strikes Excursion Boat St. Philbert Near Pornic.

BIG HOLIDAY CROWD ON WAY TO RESORT

BODIES OF DROWNED WOMEN RECOVERED

Company Insists Horror Couldn't Happen, Until Survivors Appear.

St. Nazaire, France, June 14 (A.P.).—Nearly 500 excursionists are believed to have lost their lives when the excursion steamer St. Philbert sank this afternoon between St. Gildas Point and Pornic, about 5 miles from here.

Only eight survivors had been picked up by rescue boats tonight and it was believed that, except for these, all the passengers and crew on the steamer were lost.

The excursion vessel was carying large holiday crowds on its run between Nantes and the island of Noirmoutire. It left Nantes this morning.

All of the eight rescued from the water by boats which put out for the scene shortly after the catastrophe were seen. There were a number of women and children aboard the steamer.

A squall struck the St. Philbert in the late afternoon, the survivors said. It knocked the small vessel over on its beam ends, and the crowd, becoming panicky, rushed to the opposite side of the deck causing the craft to capsize and spill her load of human freight into the churning sea.

Lightkeeper Saw Disaster.

The eight survivors were exhausted when picked up after more than an hour in the heavy seas. They were saved, they said, by life belts which they managed to seize before they were thrown into the water.

The first information about the catastrophe came from the lighthouse keeper at St. Gildas Point. He saw the squall strike the steamer and overturn it and he immediately telephoned to Pornic for help.

Lifesavers put off at once for the spot where the St. Philbert went down and after they were on their way the keeper phoned the news to St. Nazaire.

Even after the receipt of this news the report that the steamer had sunk was discredited here. It was only after the first of the survivors reached the shore that the reality of the catastrophe was accepted.

Drowned Women Found.

The operating company continued to insist it was impossible for the St. Philbert to sink at this point where the water is shallow and navigation is protected by Noirmoutier Island. The company issued a statement at 11:40 p. m. saying that the vessel was ashore between St. Gildas Point and Pornic.

One of the survivors, an Austrian named Silanek, was picked up by the tug Pornic which was sent out from St. Nazire. The other survivors were rescued by a lifesaver's boat. The boats also recovered the bodies of four of the passengers. Three of the bodies recovered were those of unidentified women.

A hope that the loss of life might eventually be less than at first estimated was given by a report that many of the passengers left the steamer at Noirmoutier Island to wait for better weather.

Hope for Reduced Estimate.

The excursion was a private one, conducted by a cooperative society of Nantes.

Rough seas were encountered on the way to the island and many of the passengers, especially women and children, suffered greatly from seasickness.

It is possible to reach the mainland at low tide, for about an hour or so, over an ancient causeway, and the hope was held that many of the sick passengers might have planned to take this means of crossing, and left the boat with that in mind.

It was pointed out, however, there were enough on board when the squall struck to capsize the craft when they rushed to one side.

The survivors were taken to a hospital tonight.

The waters around Nantes and St. Nazaire on the northwestern coast of France are familiar to American soldiers, many of whom disembarked during the World War at the port of St. Nazaire. The town is a maritime and industrial center with a population of some 35,000. It is on the regular tourist routes out of Nantes.

The accident to the St. Philbret came while the steamer was on the Nantes-Noirmoutier run. St. Philbert founded a monastery at Noirmoutier about 680 A. D. It was destroyed by the Normans in the ninth century.

St. Nazaire is the seventh seaport of France, and has an extended harbar, which was improved during the war. Along the water front are quays built especially to receive the American expeditionary forces, which landed there in 1917.

At Noirmoutier are a number of ancient churches, includinng the abbey and tomb, now empty, of St. Philbert.

2 Drowned, 2 Rescued In Ferry-Launch Crash

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Two men were drowned and a man and woman were rescued late today when their motor launch was wrecked in collision with a municipal ferryboat off Clason Point.

The ferry Elmhurst, operated between Clason Point and College Point, hit the small power craft Ada Iola as the ferry was leaving its slip, loaded with passengers. Andrew Beck, 36, and Edward Walsh, were swept under the ferry and vanished.

HELPLESS NAUTILUS ASKS HELP OF NAVY

called from mid-Atlantic for help. The battleships Arkansas and Wyoming raced to the rescue upon receiving feeble distress signals, only to find on arrival that the sea was running so high that it was impossible to get a line to the submarine.

A radio message from Rear Admiral Clark C. Bloch after dark said all was well on board and that weather and sea conditions had been bad but were improving. He added the battleships were still waiting until conditions would permits them to take the undersea ship in tow, probably for Queenstown, Ireland.

Navy men here expected little difficulty would be enctountered once it became possible to get a line to the submarine. They pointed out the danger of being lost overboard if a member of Wilkin's crew ventured out of the conning tower to secure lines during the storm.

The Nautilus, in which Wilkins hopes to reach the North Pole by navigating beenath the ice, had been running into increasingly heavy seas since leaving Provincetown, Mass., June 4.

A cracked cylinder caused failure of the starboard engine, an oil burner, Saturday, and the craft was forced to proceed on its port engine alone at about 8 knots, under good weather conditions.

Rough water Saturday night and yesterday, however, coupled with failure of the batteries, made the position of the Nautilus so grave that she was forced to call for help.

Repair at Sea Doubted.

Navy men here said that while the Armansas and Wyoming are equipped to make many kinds of mechanical repairs, it apparently proved impossible to put the Nautilus' starboard engine in shape without putting into port.

They added that Admiral Bloch evidently had decided to take the submarine to Queenstown because the battleships were scheduled to put in there and because the necessary facilities for repairing the cylinder might be available at the Irish port.

Aboard the Nautilus, in addition to Wilkins, are Capt. Sloan Danenhower, an experienced undersea navigator who received his training in the United States Navy, and seventeen others, all except one of whom are former Navy men.

Before the Nautilus set out, veteran submarine men aboard declared the Atlantic crossing promised to be "the toughest part of the whole trip."

Faces Difficulties in Open Sea.

They foresaw difficulties because a big submarine, traveling on the surface in midocean, is likely to become unmanageable in stiff wind. Below the surface, once she reaches the Arctic, they pointed out, the Nautilus will be in her natural element.

The vessel was bound for Lands End, England, when Wilkins planned to proceed to London, then to Bergen, Norway, for food, and to Spitzbergen, the take-off point for the plunge bereach the polar crust.

Barring a hurricane, no great difficulty was foreseen by Navy officers here in making the 1,000-mile tow to Queenstown. The work will be directed by Admiral Bloch from his flagship, the Arkansas, which is commanded by Capt. P. W Foote. Capt. Benjamin Dutton commands the Wyoming.

The battleships were bound for Europe with 975 Annapolis midshipmen on their summer cruise. They were only about 50 miles amay when their radio picked up distress signals. The S. S. Independence Hall was even nearer and stood by until the arrival of the battleships, which carry complete equipment for towing.

Sinking of French Craft Recalls Other Tragedies

(Associated Press.)

The sinking yesterday of the excursion steamer St. Philbert, off St. Nazaire, France, came within a day of falling upon the anniversary of the loss of the steamer General Slocum, in New York, June 15, 1904. In that catastrophe 1,021 of the 1,331 passengers lost their lives.

The General Slocum took fire in the East River and her victims went to their deaths in view of thousands of persons on the Manhattan and Brooklyn shores.

A somewhat similar tragedy was that of the Eastland, in Chicago, on July 24, 1915. The Eastland, a large steel pleasure boat, capsized at her pier in the Chicago River and 812 persons perished of the 2,000 aboard.

When the river commission steamer M. E. Norman sank in the Mississippi near Memphis on May 8, 1925, 23 engineers and their guests were lost. The Norman was conveying delegates attending a convention in Memphis on a sightseeing trip.

There have been other great disasters to passenger ships, one of which was the sinking of the steamer Norge, June 28, 1904, off the coast of Scotland, in which 646 persons died.

On April 14, 1912, the White Star liner Titantic, on her maiden trip, struck an iceberg and foundered in mid-North Atlantic, carrying down 1,517 passengers and crew.

The Empress of Ireland, after collision with the Danish collier Storstad, May 29, 1914, went to the bottom with 1,024 persons.

On January 12, 1920, a French steamship went down in the Bay of Biscay, with a loss of 500 lives.

The Principessa Mafalda, when sunk by an explosion off Porto Seguro, Brazil, October 25, 1927, carried 314 persons to death.

The Vestris, on November 12, 1928, foundered in a storm off Virginia Capes, with a loss of 110 persons.

Better fortune attended the wreck of the steamship Harvard last Memorial Day when she went aground off Point Arguella, Santa Barbara, Calif. Her several hundred passengers and crew escaped, although the vessel lies a useless hulk on the shore.

CONFEDERATE FLAG BREAKS UP PARADE

Baltimore G. A. R. Veterans Refuse to March With Banner in Line.

Baltimore, June 14 (A.P.).—Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Maryland's survivors of the Union forces of the Civil War, declined to march here today in a Flag Day procession because the Confederate flag was carried by a Boy Scout at the head of the column.

As the parade formed at the War Memorial the Confederate flag, with the Stars and Stripes and the flag of Maryland was placed in front. The aged veterans broke rank, stepped aside and returned to their homes. A member of the Legion of Valor comprised of decorated men of all wars also refused to march.

Gen. John R. King, a past national commander of the G. A. R., did not attend the ceermonies. He had written to Col. Harry C. Jones, in charge of the parade, that the flag of the Confederacy had no place in Flag Day ceremony.

"That flag," he said today, "represents the attempted destruction of the Stars and Stripes. It had no place in the line. I told Capt. George T. Beech, commander of the Maryland encampment, that I would not attend. What action he took, I do not know.

"It's the Daughters of the Confederacy who are always scratching open the wound. We didn't want any controversy. We're too old for that," he said. "But another protest of mine was that the Women's Relief Corps and the Daughters of Union Veterans were not among the organizations represented, and they are two of the oldest organiaztions growing out of the Civil War."

ARTIST DENIES AFFAIR WITH FAITHFULL GIRL

who looked like her" at several places in Manhattan.

Family Remains Secluded.

Members of the girl's family remained secluded in their apartment in St. Lukes place today, refusing to see reporters or to discuss the case. At Long Beach, however, the usual Sunday throngs were increased by hundreds of the curious who wanted to know where the body was found.

Nassau County officials let it be known they were investigating to determine the family's source of income, although they declined to tell what bearing the information might have on the case. They have ascertained, it was reported, that the girl's stepfather, Stanley Faithfull, earned a fairly large salary until about eight months ago, and since then has been doing nothing.

Both the stepdaughters, Inspector King said, were dependent on allowances given them by Mr. Faithfull.

Policeman Injured In Making Arrest

Bowen's Hand Mashed by Trick Door When He Seizes Driver.

A traffic policeman off duty, aided by his brother, captured the man they were after, following a long chase on Conduit road last night, but the policeman received an injured hand at the end.

Private J. K. Bowen was riding with his brother, Edward, last night about 8 o'clock, when he said he noticed a truck with a Virginia license zigzagging its way to Washington. The two men gave chase, and the truck speededd up. In front of 4433 Conduit road the truck is said to have struck a parked car.

That ended the chase, but in making an arest, Private Bowen received a smashed hand, caught in the truck's door. Arthur William, 49 years old, of Fort Myer, Va., was booked on a charge of driving while drunk.

Road Builders Pick Detroit.

Detroit, June 14 (U.P.).—The American Road Builders Association has chosen Detroit for its international road show and exposition next January. More than 35,000 road builders are expected to attend the exposition, which will be featured by exhibits of large modern road-building machinery and equipment.

TEMPERANCE GOAL SET FOR TEACHERS

Virginia Sunday Schools Put Abstinence as Part of Major Program.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., June 14.—Teaching of temperance and total abstinence was advocated as one of the major objectives of the Virginia Council of Religious Education tonight at the closing session of the fortieth annual State convention at the State Teachers College Resolutions condemned the forces of unrighteousness being organized throughout the Nation which seek to exploit youth with their subtle propaganda.

The motion picture theater was condemned for its distored presentation of life and disregard for sacred sanctities of home, church and state, held to be a source of moral degredation.

"If our children must attend the cinema," said the report, "let us carefully select only those pictures which are least harmful and most elevating until such time as our Christian civilization shall command universal reform in ths industry."

Closing feature tonight was presentation of a pageant directed by Prof. H. Augustine Smith, Boston University. This afternoon's program was devoted to hymn singing and pageantry, directed by Prof. Smith. More than 1,000 persons jammed the Teachers' College auditorium for this service.

Virginia Young People's Conference, held simultaneously with the Sunday school convention, concluded its session with a banquet last night. The council decided to increase its program of religious education, weekday schools of religious education and vacation Bible schools.

A resolution recalled that 46.2 per cent of the population is in the churches of the State and only 35.1 per cent enrolled in the Sunday schools. More than 1,300 delegates were registered over the four days, making the convention the largest in history, according to the Rev. Minor C. Miller, general secretary.

MIDWEST INVASION BEGUN BY HOOVER

Speaks in Indiana Tonight; Trip Held Important as Winning Support.

En Route With President Hoover to Indianapolis, June 14 (A.P.).—President Hoover headed into the Middle West tonight aboard a special train to present himself and his policies to the people of three States.

Boarding a special train at Orange, Va., the President retired early in preparation for the three busy days ahead. His suitcase carried three speeches to be delivered in as many days in Indiana, Ohio and Illinois.

The Chief Executive and Mrs. Hoover came to Orange by automobile from their fishing camp in the nearby Blue Ridge Mountains, where they had spent the week-end. Their son, Allan, accompanied them. The special train was made up at Washington and most of the President's party boarded it there.

Early tomorrow at Charleston, W. Va., the President will welcome aboard his train Gov. Conley and Senator Hatfield and other Republican leaders. They will accompany him to Huntington.

This invitation to the party chieftains of West Virginia strengthened the hopes of some Republican managers that Mr. Hoover's visit to the Middle West would give an opportunity for repairing some of the Democratic damage of the last congressional election in this region preparatory to the presidential campaign next year.

It was arranged that the train be put on a siding for several hours during the night so that the President might rest more comfortably and drop more easily into the scheduled fixed for tomorrow.

Speaking tomorrow night at Indianapolis before the Indiana Republican Editorial Association, he will be afforded a platform for a discussion of policies which political leaders are awaiting with interest.

Tuesday afternoon Mr. Hoover will join Calvin Coolidge at Marion, Ohio, for the dedication of the memorial to Warren G. Harding, leaving immediately for a brief visit at Columbus.

Reaching Springfield, Ill., early Wednesday, he will go before the Illinois Assembly and that afternoon rededicate the Tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

The trip into the Middle West follows closely the boom for Mr. Hoover sounded by Cabinet members and some party leaders before the conference of young Republicans at Washington.

Because of this, Republican workers are inclined to attach some significance to the tour, although the President announced the speaking engagements two months ago.

Daylight trips will be made across much of the territory by the presidential special. It will travel across West Virginia, a corner of Kentucky and southern Ohio in going to Indianapolis tomorrow. The train is to reach the Indiana capital late in the afternoon.

After spending tomorrow night as the guest of Gov. Leslie of Indiana, Mr. Hoover will journey Tuesday morning to Marion, reaching there just in time for the ceremonies.

From Columbus, Ohio, he will travel back across Indiana to Springfield by night. Leaving Springfield Wednesday evening, the President will reach Washington late Thursday afternoon.

A severe electrical and rainstorm swept the Rapidan camp last night and the rain continued throughout most of today, but no particular damage was reported.

Procession Is Staged, Despite Papal Order

Nicastro, Italy, June 14 (A.P.).—A procession in honor of St. Anthony of Padua was held here today in spite of the order of Pope Pius XI prohibiting outdoor church processions.

Members of the clergy did not participate, however, nor were church objects carried. A group of carabinieri came from Catanzaro and policed the town, but there were no disorders.

Search for Man's Body In Potomac Is Pushed

Dragging and searching operations for the body of Chester Partello, 25 years old, of 1626 G street southeast, believed to have been drowned Saturday when a boat capsized in the Potomac River near Indianhead, Md., continued at a late hour last night, but little hope was held for its recovery, as it was thought the body had ben carried several miles downstream.

Two other occupants of the boat, Fenton J. Parker and Freddie O'Keefe, were rescued by employes of the Naval Powder Base nearby. According to witnesses of the accident, Partello and O'Keefe were changing places in the boat when it suddenly overturned.

SLEEP DRUG BLAMED FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Autopsy Ordered to Learn if Mrs. Hall Meant to End Her Life.

Mrs. Mildred Hall, formerly of Petersburg, Va., died in George Washington University Hospital yesterday afternoon from the effects, police say, of a large quanity of sleep-inducing drug. The woman, who was about 40 years of age, was taken to the hospital Saturday morning from the Ambassador Hotel where she was found in her room in a comatose condition.

Pending an autopsy Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt refused to issue a certificate in Mrs. Hall's death. The coroner said he desired the findings of an autopsy before he would certify as to whether the death of the woman was by self-intent or not.

Police, who were not informed of the woman's critical condition at the hospital until after midnight Saturday, said Mrs. Hall recently attempted to take her life by slashing her wrists. This effort was frustrated by friends, police said.

Papers found among Mrs. Hall's effects showed that she had a sister, Mrs. James Bowery, living in Colonial Heights, Petersburg, Va. When a blood transfusion was decided upon by hospital physicians in an attempt early yesterday to bolster the woman's ebbing strength, police here wired the sister for authorization to arrange for the transfusion. Two hours after she died they received a telegraphic reply signed by the sister which said, "Impossible to render aid in such a case."

It was said at the Hotel Hamilton that Mrs. Hall had been living at the hotel for several weeks, but little else was known about her.

Explaining the delay in informing police of the case, Dr. Maurice Portas, of the George Washington staff, who accompanied the ambulance which took Mrs. Hall to the hospital, said he was "too busy" administering to the ill woman.

loyalty to the government. He telegraphed Kang Ching-Wei, leader of the Canton rebellion, that he personally was leading his army against the southern capital.

Chen, when he returned from Japan, rejoined his two divisions of troops in Kiangsi Province. In return for payments from both the Nationalist and new insurgent governments, he was supposed to remain neutral, using his army only against bandits in that province. Later, however, he was reported to have sent a representative to Canton. The announcement followed that his troops would defend Swatow, a southern stronghold.

Chen's army was reported at Sinfeng in southern Kiangsi. Southern leaders were taking precautions at Shiuchow lest he take that route to Canton.

Canton leaders probably will not declare war until they are assured of support from the north.

ALEXANDRIA WATER SUIT UP WEDNESDAY

Hearing at Richmond Will Be Resumed After Delay Since May 5.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Hearing of the suit of the Alexandria Water Co., which seeks to increase rates for water in the city and environs, si to be resumed Wednesday before the State Corporation Commission in Richmond, after having been postponed May 5, when Clarence H. Dickie, attorney for the water company, was taken ill.

Commonwealth Attorney Albert V. Bryan and City Attorney Carl Budwesky will represent the City of Alevandria.

Mrs. Fanny F. Ballenger, widow of Thomas W. Ballenger, died Saturday at the home of her son, John H. Ballenger, 223 La Verne avenue, Del Ray. Funeral will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the home, and burial will be at Hamilton, Loudoun County, Va. The deceased has made her home the last 4 years with her son John, and is survived by two other sons, Cleveland Ballenger, Round Hill, and Rodney Ballenger, Leesburg. Fourteen grand children and 21 great-grand children also survive.

Funeral for Wade Hammil, 62 years old, of Occoquan, Va., who died in Alexandria Hospital after a long illness, will be at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Wheatly Funeral Home, 809 King street, conducted by the Rev. Dr. E. V. Regester, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. Burial will be in Glenwood Cemetery, Washington.

Mrs. Catherine Bastow, aged 90 years, died Friday night at her home in Murray avenue, Virginia Highlands, and the body was brought to Cunningham Funeral Home, 809 Cameron street. Funeral will be at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Oakton Methodist Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Aakton Cemetery.

A young man, aged 19 years, who gave the name of Carrigan, from North Carolina, was brought to Alexandria Hospital yesterday morning with a broken knee as the result of jumping from a freight train, it was stated.

be held at Moundsville, W. Va., across the Ohio River tonight. Plans were also drawn to picket the Constanso Mine on the West Virginia side tomorrow.

During the picnic two constables entered the ground but left immediately as the crowd heckled them. They were not molested, however.

Foster told the strikers that miners in Illinois and western Pennsylvania were looking to the success of the Ohio and West Virginia movement with a possibility the strike might be extended to those States. He said the National Miners Union will make every effort to prevent Pennsylvania officials from attempting to reestablish the United Mine Workers as a labor unit in that section.

the party's resolution to support the chancellor was its answer to those who, by balking at the decrees, were invoking "a policy of catastrophe."

"The reparations are unbearable," he said, "and we are all agreed that the Young plan needs revision, but the question remains, How can it best be done?"

The minister ended by appealing to the world to "keep its head" on the question of Germany's financial stability, asserting that the recent events were a natural reflection of the unsettled condition of Europe.

"If commonsense were used all around," he said, "tranquility would be restored in short order."

GOVERNMENT SPURS DRIVE ON GANGMEN

ment's campaign against Capone cohorts, that all the praise heaped on him for the dogged pursuit of the gangsters should be shared with the eight members of the special unit. They were the men on the firing line.

Seven of the eight, the pick of prohibition agents from all over the country, remain anonymous for various reasons. Heading the small group which braved gangland to evolve a denouement which has brought more than a whisper that "Capone is through," is 28-year-old Eliot Ness, University of Chicago graduate.

These young men, all college trained, whose average age is but 30 and whose average annual salary is $2,800, rejected proffers of amounts far in excess of their year's wages that they might continue to build up the Government's case.

Its bribes ignored, gangland tried the gun. Ness himself was placed "on the spot" several times but escaped. Mafia leaders on one occasion sent Mike Picchi to ambush him and a companion. Only because Ness was quicker on the draw did the Government men escape. Picchi was overpowered, arrested and convicted.

Intimidation likewise was essayed. A hoodlum emissary attempted to frighten Ness into inactivity by telling him that evidence had been procured which would reveal the agent as having obtained his job under false pretenses. Offers of as much as $2,000 a time for others of the small band to move a couple of blocks away to permit movements of beer trucks were almost commonplace.

But the hunt went on. Telephone wires were tapped, the liquor industry of the gang bailiwick in Chicago Heights was cleaned up, and finally big stills of the Capone mob in this city were "knocked over" in quick succession.

The evidence accumulated. Ness and his associates last week saw the fruition of their efforts—the indictment of Capone and 68 members of his syndicate on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law in 5,000 instances over a period of ten years.

That is reward enough for the "untouchables."

Woll further proposes that the civic federation summon the American Industrial Congress, composed of representative American Industrialists to estimate America's probable commercial and industrial growth for the next ten years and create control machinery which would avoid future economic insecurity.

Preliminary meetings probably will be held before the main congress for which no dates have been set.

18 BOYS GRADUATED IN CHARLOTTESVILLE

Virginia University Faculty Members to Serve as Advisers Next Year.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 14.—Final exercises, marking close of the first session of the Charlottesville School for Boys, were held yesterday morning in the auditorium of the school at Huntley Park, near Frys Spring. Principal address was by Dr. Halstead S. Hedges, of the medical faculty of the University of Virginia. Eighteen boys were graduated.

The school was founded and is headed by Robert S. Osborne, of Ithaca, N. Y., and enrollment in the last session was 75. It draws students almost exclusively from the university and Charlottesville area.

Addressing the student body, Headmaster Osborne announced that three prominent members of the university faculty, Dean J. M. Page, Prof. Stringfellow Barr and Harry Clemons, librarian, had been named as an advisory board for the next session. They will give advice and guidance to the school, aid in selecting faculty members and have general supervision of the curriculum.

Several masters' positions at the school are held by university graduates, and next session a program of enlargement includes an increased teaching staff. Thirty-five boarders are expected, and it is planned to build new classrooms, turning the old academy exclusively into dormitories.

Charles Melton Weds Miss Crampton.

1,600 Youths Begin R. O. T. C. Courses

Carlisle Barracks, Pa., Has Largest Enrollment; Fort Meade Next.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, June 14.—Processing of students at eight Army posts of the Third Corps Area, composed of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, marked the opening of the annual six weeks' of summer camp training for more than 1,600 members of the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

By reason of the special facilities afforded, enrollment at many posts will include students from institutions outside the Third Corps Area. Carlisle Barracks, Pa., with 502 enrolled, all taking medical courses, is the largest R. O. T. C. camp.

Fort George G. Meade, Md., with 417, chiefly Infantry, but with some Signal Corps students from both the Third and the Fourth Corps Areas, ranks second in point of numbers. Other posts in the order of scheduled attendance and type of units follow: Fort Monroe, Va., 233 Coast Artillery Corps; Fort Humphreys, Va., 223 Engineers; Edgewood Arsenal, Md., 100 Chemical Warfare; Fort Hoyle, Md., 63 Field Artillery; Fort Hunt, Va., 51 Infantry (colored); Fort Myer, Va., 32 Cavalry.

SPEAKER OUTLINES DUTY OF EDUCATION

Virginia University Class Is Told New Life Must Chart Its Own Course.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 14—It is the business of true education to emancipate mankind of both past and present, so that it may preserve the good life unchanged by the tyrannies and bigotries of the past and the hysteria of the present, said Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, of Union Theological Seminary, New York, and editor of the World Tomorrow, in the baccalaureate sermon at the University of Virginia this morning.

"A new generation must bring forth things new. The traditions of the fathers may have been applicable to their own day, but the atmosphere of modern culture and modern civilization demands new attitudes," the speaker said, discussing "Things New and Old."

The fathers were individualists, he asserted, adding that we are living in a day in which we must seek happiness in terms of social solidarity with our brothers. The fathers were parochial. The customs of their groups, racial, national and social, determined their standards of living; in our kind of a world we must learn that what is different need not be inferior, he said, explaining that "bigotry of every kind, racial, religious and moral has become a peril in the world in which people of such varying background have been thrown into intimate association."

"Perhaps there are no insights which depend so much upon the past as religious insights. This does mean that religion must not be adjusted to the world of modern culture. But religion is poetry which must be refreshed constantly by the insights of poetic ages in which analytic intelligence had not yet destroyed the vigor and robustness of the poetic imagination."

Annapolis Elks Sponsor Ceremonies of Flag Day

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 14.—Annapolis Lodge of Elks sponsored a program of patriotic exercises today in observance of Flag Day. The ceremonies were held on the campus in front of the State Capitol, United States Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, orator of the occasion, speaking from the portico of the building.

A number of Elks from other lodges in the State joined their local brothers for the celebration. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie was among the distinguished guests. The Naval Academy Band furnished a stirring program of patriotic music and flag ceremonies of the lodge were a feature of the observance.

ROSSLYN CITIZENS TO UNITE TONIGHT

Various Associations Will Be Consolidated Into One Organization.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Plans perfecting a citizens association embracing the entire Rosslyn precinct will be completed at a meeting tonight in the Woodrow Wilson School auditorium, Fort Myer Heights.

Sections to be represented in the association are Fort Myer Heights, Aurora Heights, Park Lane, Radnor Heights and Rosslyn.

The committee from the Fort Myer Heights Association, sponsoring the movement, consists of Robert E. Plymale, chairman; Fort Myer Heights; Homer R. Thomas, Aurora Heights; Dr. C. L. Shear, Radnor Heights; George A. Rucker, Rosslyn; and William B. Hann, Park Lane.

Mr. Plymale, president of the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association, stated that much more can be accomplished by a large, active association than by several small associations and some that are not active.

Plymale said the meeting tonight will be in the form of a mass meeting. He hoped for full attendance, as officers will be elected.

John A. Spates, former chief, has been named general chairman of the committee on arrangements of the Cherrydale Volunteer Fire Department's annual carnival, to be held the week of June 22. Other members of the general committee are Frank Williams, Reese O'Neil and Oscar Doyle. Amusements and stands will be in charge of E. Smith, Frank Morner, Arthur Kidwell Edward Young, Tony Luzi, Carl Kavener, C. Shanks and John Malapina. The woman's auxiliary, headed by Miss Mazie Shaw, will have charge of the lunch stand and fish pond.

The Clarendon Fire Department responded to a call yesterday afternoon from Rosslyn, where they found an automobile on fire belonging to Mrs. C. L. Watkins, of Bethesda, Md. The damage was said to be slight.

The June term of Arlington County Circuit Court will convene today at 10 o'clock, with Judge Walter T. McCarthy on the bench.

More than 300 persons yesterday afternoon attended Flag Day exercises in the public park opposite the Clarendon Fire Department. The Rev. Perry L. Mitchell, pastor of the Clarendon Baptist Church, was the speaker. The exercises, held under auspices of the fire department, with Thomas R. Mechem, chairman, included community singing, led by Harold M. Brown, of Cherrydale, and music by the Old Dominion Band, of Ballston.

The Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department will open its annual carnival tonight in the park opposite the firehouse, to continue through the week. Proceeds will be applied to the building fund being raised to provide additional room for housing the equipment.

Dancing will be a feature each evening, in charge of Chief Herbert F. Smith. Members of the department in charge of the various stands are: Robert Baille and S. O. Krigbaum, candy; Winnard Caton, ice cream; M. Wunder, soft drinks; C. M. Austin, lunch; Stephen Childs, bingo game, and J. W. Saunders, paddle stand.

The Ashton Heights Citizens Association will meet at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the Woman's Clubhouse.

The Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association will meet tomorrow night with the Jefferson District Fire Department at its firehouse in Virginia Highlands. Appointment of a superintendent of machinery and consolidation of the departments into one working unit will be discussed. Plans for the annual jubilee and convention also will be discussed.

The Men's Club of St. George's Episcopal Church will meet Thursday evening at the parish hall. All members are asked to attend, as business of interest to the welfare of the club will be considered.

The Progressive Woman's Club of the Ballston Christian Church will hold an all-day meeting Wednesday with Mrs. Otis Jarret at her home near Tyson's Crossroads.

Low Lamb Prices Make Virginia Farmers Losers

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., June 14.—The present price of lambs—the lowest in seventeen years—has cost the loss of thousands of dollars to farmers of Page County.

During the last winter farmers incurred heavy expense to increase their usual number of lambs for the spring and early summer market, believing that there would be a heavy demand on city markets.

All sheep folds were culled of scrub stock and breeding was to sires of prize-taking breeds. Improved sheep that were brought into this county within the last nine months have cost farmers thousands of dollars. The entire lamb output of some farmers have not brought as much money as was spent for the introduction of high-bred sires. Lambs are now bringing 6 and 7 cents on the market.

D.A.R. Chapter Unveils Tablet to Mrs. Cabell

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., June 14.—A bronze tablet was unveiled to the memory of the late Mrs. Mary Virginia Ellett Cabell, at Point of Honor, her former home here, this afternoon under auspices of Lynchburg Chapter, D. A. R. Mrs. Cabell was born at this dwelling, which was formerly the home of the father of the late Senator John W. Daniel.

The tablet was presented by Mrs. C. L. DeMott, regent of the chapter, and accepted by Mrs. C. B. Keesee, State regent. The orator of the occasion was Judge Don P. Halsey, of the Circuit Court here.

Farmer-Banker Named to Board.

Martinsburg, W. Va. June 14 (Special).—W. A. Roush, farmer and banker, has been named a member of the Berkeley County board of equalization and review by the State board of public works, to succeed Lewis H. Thompson, this city, who declined to accept reappointment.

JUDGE JAMES HAY BURIED IN MADISON

Former U. S. Court of Claims Jurist Died on Friday; Had Noted Career.

Special to The Washington Post.

Madison, Va., June 14.—The funeral of Judge James Hay, retired, of the United States Court of Claims and a member of Congress from the Seventh Virginia District for 20 years, was held at his home here this afternoon.

Interment was in Cedar Hill Cemetery here, in the presence of a large crowd assembled for the services at the grave. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. K. J. Hammond, rector of Piedmont Episcopal Church.

Judge Hay died Friday night as the result of a cerebral hemorrhage four hours earlier. Although his health had not been of the best since his retirement from active service on the Court of Claims, December 1, 1927, his death came as a great shock to his family and his large circle of friends.

Noted Men Pallbearers.

The honorary pallbearers were: Judge E. K. Campbell, of Washington, D. C., chief justice of the Court of Claims during Judge Hay's service on that bench; Charles C. Carlin, of Alexandria, Va.; Judge George L. Browning, of the Virginia Court of Appeals; Dr. Joseph M. Heller, of Washington, D. C.; State Senator Hunter Miller, of Bedford, Va.; W. L. Early, of Wolftown, Va.; Lucio W. Hill, of Locust Dale, Va.; James W. Banks, of Orange, Va., and the following of Madison: Dr. Jesse N. Clore, E. T. Krider, N. G. Payne, T. C. Taylor, H. B. Fray, G. R. Thrift and B. S. Utz.

The active pallbearers were Joseph B. Fray, F. P. Smith, jr., S. H. Smith, A. H. Cave, W. W. Cave and G. B. Cave, all of Madison, except W. W. Cave, of Pulaski, Va.

Surviving Judge Hay are his widow, formerly Miss Eloise Cave, of Madison; four children, James Hay, jr., of Washington, D. C.; William Hay, of Madison, Va.; Mrs. D. C. Wade, of Beckley, W. Va., and Mrs. Randolph G. Page, of Fairfield, Ohio. The judge is also survived by nine grandchildren.

Had Distinguished Career.

Judge Hay had a long and distinguished career in public life, during which he was never defeated for any office. It embraced service as Commonwealth's attorney of Madison County, Member of the Virginia House of Delegates and the Virginia State Senate, member of the Democratic State committee, delegate to Democratic national conventions, member of the National House of Representatives from 1897 to 1916, during which he was author of the national defense act of 1916, and judge of the Court of Claims of the United States from July 15, 1916, until December 1, 1927. He resigned his seat in Congress to take the place on the bench.

He was educated in private schools in Virginia and Maryland, the University of Pennsylvania and Washington and Lee University, graduating from the last named in law in 1877. He was born at Millwood, Va., January 9, 1856.

Funeral Rites Are Held For W. Bernard Payne

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 14.—W. Bernard Payne, well-known farmer residing near Crofton, Fluvanna County, died yesterday at the Martha Jefferson Hospital, this city. Burial rites were held at 5 o'clock this afternoon in Riverview Cemetery, the service being conducted by the Rev. C. C. Bell, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Mr. Payne was a native of Fluvanna County, son of the late William J. Payne, and 48 years of age. He never married. Surviving are five brothers and two sisters—T. Lloyd Payne, of Crewe; Marvin Payne, of Palmyra; W. E., R. F. and R. M. Payne, all of this city; Miss Laura Payne, of Crofton, and Mrs. Vera P. Guiff, of Keswick, this county.

Near-Centenarians Gather for Worship

Service of 100 Years Ago Reproduced at Myersville Church.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., June 14.—Nearly 1,200 persons from parts of Maryland, Pennsylvania and other States attended the seventeenth annual Old Folks services in the United Brethren Church, Myersville, the Rev. B. F. Blubaugh, pastor, today. Hymns were raised by persons in the congregation, experiences were given and worship was conducted along lines of 100 years ago.

Ezra Baker, 99, of near Harmony, made the principal address. Others who spoke were Harry Reynolds, Hagerstown, 95; Daniel Lewis, Middleton Valley, 87; Thomas C. Rowe, a Civil War veteran, of Williamsport, 85; David Hager, Hagerstown, 86, and several others more than 85. James U. Gernand, 82, walked the longest distance to church, nearly 3 miles. Mr. Baker was presented with a bouquet of flowers in recognition of being the oldest man at the service; Mrs. Sarah Brane, Rohrersville, 91, received flowers for being the oldest woman. Mrs. Sarah Burton, 90, was the next oldest woman.

The original church was built in 1711 and was known as the Dutch Congregation. In 1786 when men carried flintlocks to protect their families against attacks by the Indians, another church was built on the site. This church was purchased by the present congregation in 1852. The church has in its possession the old tuning forks, formerly used by Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star-Spangled Banner," a former member of the congregation, to "raise" the singing.

Hill—Abell Wedding Solemnized.

Charlottesville, Va., June 14 (Special).—James Murray Hill, of Louisa, and Miss Ruth P. Abell, daughter of Mrs. Cornelia A. Abell, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the home of the bride's mother, at Ivy, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. F. Leslie Robinson, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Clamont.

Monticello Scene Of Elks Flag Fete

Virginia Lodges Gather to Hear Talk Given by National Chief.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va. June 14.—While new problems press upon our people daily, yet the things that Jefferson stressed, political equality, religious freedom and educational opportunity, remain the most important considerations, said Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, Pa., grand exalted ruler of the Elks, speaking this afternoon at Flag Day celebration of the Virginia Elks Association at Monticello, home of Jefferson.

Several hundred Elks from Virginia lodges gathered at the national shrine for the service. Prayer was given by the Rev. L. L. Bowers, of Danville, chaplain of the State association. The song, "Land of Hope and Glory," was sung by the Elks Glee Club, of Lynchburg.

Holland D. Cock, of Hampton, related the history of the flag. Present at the service was Fred Harper, of Lynchburg, past grand exalted ruler.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SUNDAY IS BUSY ONE

Delegates at Thirty-seventh Convention at Winchester Attend Four Meetings.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., June 14.—Christian Endeavorers from virtually every section of Virginia, here for the thirty-seventh annual State convention, put in a strenuous day with four meetings today. Another program, almost as large, was scheduled for tomorrow.

Beginning with a fellowship service at 7 a. m. on the terrace of the First Baptist Church, the program continued with only intermissions for meals until tonight, when a great union meeting was held in the auditorium of Handley High School, city churches being closed for the evening.

Over 400 delegates are attending the convention, and their number was augmented by several hundred others who came for the day. Only accredited delegates were assigned to homes for the period of the convention, which closes Tuesday evening. Claude E. Barfield, president, Newport News, is presiding.

President's Annual Address.

Robert B. Crawford, vice president, Farmville, presided over the early service, at which the Rev. Vernon L. Phillips, president of Shenandoah College, Dayton, Va., was the principal speaker.

Mrs. W. B. Williams, publication superintendent, Richmond, presided over a quiet hour and life recruit breakfast at the George Washington Hotel. Warren Hoopes, general Pennsylvania secretary, West Grove, Pa., spoke on "Stewardship of Life." Delegates attended Sunday schools and churches of their choice, and numbers of the visitors spoke at morning services.

President Barfield delivered his annual message at a meeting this afternoon at Handley High School, reviewing progress of the State union for the past year, reports showing steady increase in membership and scope of work.

Chorus of 100 Heard.

The praise service was directed by the Rev. J. F. Morgan, Portlock. The devotional period was in charge of the Rev. Dr. L. A. Thomas, of Grace Lutheran Church, Winchester, and Floyd W. Haines directed a chorus of 100 voices. Past State presidents, officers and leaders in the convention were introduced.

"Christian Citizenship" was discussed at an open-air meeting on Handley campus by Dr. William Moseley Brown, Virginia Beach, president of Atlantic University. A large orchestra accompanied the convention chorus.

Tonight's mass meeting at Handley Auditorium was addressed by Charles F. Evans, international Midwest secretary, Chicago, on "Fellowship With Christ Winning Others." Prayer was offered by the Rev. W. L. Dudley, of the Church of Christ, Winchester.

West Virginia Farmers Look to "Picnic" Year

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va. June 14.—The eastern West Virginia farmer, turning philosophical, at least temporarily, in the face of surplus crops, is abandoning his normal hunt for money and is turning to diversions for himself and family this summer, Nat T. Frame, director of extension division, West Virginia University, Morgantown, said here today in concluding a trip into the South Branch Valley.

The year apparently will be a "picnic" season for the farmers, he said. With low prices, big crops and general economic depression confronting him, and with the knowledge that he and his family in any event will have plenty of food and fuel for the year, Director Frame found the farmers talking more pleasure than competition.

Lumber Firms' Claims On Park Sites Heard

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 14.—The hearing of the claims of the Ward-Rue Lumber Co. and the Madison Timber Corporation for their holdings in the proposed Shenandoah National Park area was concluded yesterday before the board of appraisal commissioners, composed of J. F. Billingsley and L. M. Parmer, of Culpeper, and Joseph M. Samuels, of Orange.

The lumber corporation places the value of its holdings at approximately $1,200,000. Included in this is $40,000 for about an acre of land on which the Cabinet Camp is located adjacent to the Summer White House Grounds, which land was purchased by President Hoover, the corporation claiming the improvements thereon which it has had assessed at $10,000.

Miss Lucy K. Scott to Wed.

Lynchburg, Va., June 14 (Special).—Mr. and Mrs. James A. Scott, of this city, have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lucy Kirkwood Scott, to Edward J. Hotchkiss, jr., which is to be solemnized the evening of June 27 at First Presbyterian Church.

Motor Truck Tax Held Highest of All

Virginia Operators Told Public Should Know More of Problem.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., June 14.—Pleas for better representation to the general public of the service value of motor trucks were made here last night by speakers at a meeting held under auspices of the Virginia Truck Operators Association. S. A. Jessup, of this city, presided.

A. G. Bell, jr., of Norfolk, secretary, pictured the motor truck as a tool of business, closely merged with other processes of business and as completely under the control of business as a factory machine. "The shipper-owner," said Mr. Bell, "has this tool at hand to help him keep down the cost of distribution, which is just as much a part of the price of anything we buy as the raw material that goes into it."

James V. Yarnall, of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, told the meeting that the motor truck pays the highest rate of taxes per dollar of assessed valuation of any property in this country, tangible or intangible, and that the motor truck paid in taxes in this State last year more than $3,625,000.

SCORES PURCHASERS AT WOODLAND BEACH

Fine Sunday Driving Brings Host of Lot Seekers to New Resort.

Scores of additional names were added yesterday to the long list of lot owners at Woodland Beach, the summer home development site recently announced by The Washington Post. The cool, cloudy weather was ideal for driving, and many took advantage of the fact to take a run out to the beach and investigate for themselves.

They found that reports they had received from friends and relatives as to the advantages offered by the site were not exaggerated, but rather had been minimized.

Of course, the chief feature in the heavy sale of lots at Woodland Beach, a sale which started in a big way the first day and which has continued in the same way since, is the price of the lots.

Every Lot Is $93.

Every lot at this resort site on South River, in Maryland, is priced at $93, and there is no chance to purchase a site for more or less money. However, the payment of $93 down to buy a lot is not necessary. All that is required before you are permitted to make your selection is the payment of $9 in cash together with the price of a subscription to The Washington Post. All the rest of the purchase price may be paid in monthly installments of $3.50.

When it is considered that Woodland Beach is close to water, where bathing, boating and fishing are offered to the prospective buyer; that the site is only 32 miles from Washington over good roads; that amusement devices for children already have been installed; that there is a community clubhouse built to be turned over to an association of lot owners, when formed, and that the price is right, it is no wonder that all Washington is hailing Woodland Beach as the coming summer colony of this vicinity.

Many Fine Locations.

If you did not get out to the Beach yesterday or have not visited the spot previously, that need not prevent you from securing one of the many fine locations still available. All you have to do is call The Post, where the "lay of the land" at the Beach will be carefully explained to you. You may make a selection and place your deposit on it. Then when you have an opportunity to visit the Beach and you find a location more to your liking, you may change.

Hundreds of Capital residents have taken advantage of this unusual offer. You are liable to be sorry if you do not follow in their footsteps. Call at The Post today and insure many delightful summers for yourself and your family.

MILITARY STRENGTH OF U. S. DISCLOSED

puted on a daily average of 1,075, and were included in the Army's total forces, as was the Naval and Marine reserve daily average of 1,402.2 effectives, of whom 323.4 were officers.

Tables of the American naval ship strength were a repetition of those included in and annexed to the London Naval Treaty. America's total air armed forces, which were included in the Army and Navy total effectives as "integral parts," were placed at 27,324 officers and men. Of this total, the Army Air Corps consists of 13,155 effectives and the Navy of 14,169.

The total number of planes in the land, sea and air armed forces of the United States was placed at 1,752, including 965 Army planes and 787 naval planes. Six dirigibles, including 3 in the Army, 2 in the Navy and including the Los Angeles, limited by treaty to use for training, were listed.

The Army and Navy were said to have no air components capable of service without mobilization measures.

WICKERSHAM CRIME SURVEY TO BE FINISHED JUST IN TIME

reports can be delivered to the White House before the commission, as such, is automatically abolished.

It was explained that arrangements had been made whereby if the remaining reports are deposited at the Government Printing Office by July 1, they can be paid for out of commission appropriations. Under this plan the reports could be laid, piece by piece, before the President, even though the commission had ceased to exist.

Washington officials have been awaiting with considerable interest the contents of some of the remaining reports. One in particular will discuss "Governmental Lawlessness," investigations into which have been in progress for months by the commission's private investigators.

Others of the eight reports will deal with such subjects as "Crime Among the Foreign Born," the causes and cost of crime, the work of the police and the conditions of the Nation's prisons.

Chairman Wickersham acknowledges, however, that the studies initiated by the commission will not be finally completed for years. He named particularly the study of the courts, upon which the commission will make only a "progress" report. This will be carried on by an independent group.

Thus far, after 24 months of work, the commission has delivered to President Hoover four reports, upon one of which, the prohibition report, it spent the greater part of 20 months, and around which it erected a wall of secrecy seldom paralleled in official Washington.

Since it was laid before Congress last January it has been claimed as a victory by both sides of the controversy. Even President Hoover received it with qualified praise.

In his message to Congress he said he was in accord with the commission in opposing repeal of the amendment, but "saw serious objections to, and therefore must not be understood as recommending the commission's proposed revision of the eighteenth amendment."

Members of the commission recently have been willing to discuss this phase of its report more freely.

In the summary of the report, after declarations against repeal, Government sale of liquor, the saloon and light wines and beer, this phrase was used:

"Some of the commission are not convinced that prohibition under the eighteenth amendment is unenforceable * * *".

It was pointed out that the four members favoring further trial under this clause employed the double negative, while those favoring repeal or revision—seven of the eleven commissioners—said they believed the law unenforceable.

In others of its recommendations the commission said it believed there was "yet no adequate observance or enforcement," and recommended that the enforcement organization be built up to greater strength.

The first report of the commission, a preliminary statement on prohibition submitted in January, 1930, urged the since completed transfer of the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Justice Department, the creation of a unified border patrol, a strengthened padlock procedure and the broadening of the powers of United States commissioners.

A third report which appeared last April dealt with criminal statistics. It condemned as inadequate and often misleading the present methods of gathering statistics and asserted some Government departments used this method of making "the most favorable showing possible."

The most recently published report, one on prosecutions, aroused a storm of protest from the Senate. It asserted there was political interference in appointing Federal district attorneys and said the using of this office "as a reward for political activity is a serious menace to enforcement of law."

SCORES WILL TAKE PART IN 'THE PIPER'

Drama Will Be Presented in Sylvan Theater Wednesday and Thursday.

Numerous members of Washington dramatic, dancing and singing groups will take part in the outdoor presentation of "The Piper" by the Community Drama Guild Wednesday and Thursday at the Sylvan Theater on the Monument Grounds.

Production of the poetic drama by Josephine Preston Peabody has been directed by William F. Baker, assisted by Miss Esther Galbraith, Miss Carolyn McKinley, whose dance group will participate in the play, also has cooperated, as has Mrs. Edith H. Hunter, accompanist; Miss Evelyn Davis, as folk game director; Harold Snyder, scenic director, and Walter Pagan as song director.

Included in the cast of players are Murray Sheehan, Gifford Kirk, George Finger, Robert Chase, Charles Columbus, Gilbert Potts, Jack White, Richard Stringfellow, S. Allen Foster, Frank Megill, Clarence Gunther, William E. Bryant, Kent Dyer, Capt. Ray C. Montgomery, H. Eldred Wilson, Hester Walker Beall, Virginia Barrett, Ruth Molyneaux, Anne Ives, Eileen Fowler, Dorothy Stewart, Alberta Cissel, Bella Shapiro, George E. Rhine, Dorothy Howard, Elizabeth Sypher.

Several groups of singers, dancers and juveniles will also take important parts. The United States Marine Band, Capt. Taylor Branson conducting, will play special incidental music.

Tickets are on sale at T. Arthur Smith's, 1330 G street; A. A. A. headquarters, Seventeenth and G, and the office of the Drama Guild, Franklin Administration Building, Thirteenth and K. Community prices for chair privileges prevail; 50c and $1. Boxes are also available for both nights from Mrs. Fulton Lewis, Mrs. Charles T. Watson, the Drama Guild, and the agencies mentioned.

Credit Men Favor Trust Law Change

Better Foreign Business Predicted if Revision Is Realized.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—The economic credit council of the National Association of Credit Men, announcing the results of a questionnaire sent to its membership, said today 70 per cent favored revision of the antitrust laws as a necessary aid to business.

Of those favoring revision, about 50 per cent favored changes because present statutes are "antiquated, obsolete and must be adjusted to fit present-day needs."

Some members said they foresaw improvement of American foreign trade if "business is not restricted as it is under the present enactment." Results of the survey are to be presented at the association's annual convention and the credit congress of industry in Boston June 22.

Wet Group Headed By Mrs. Roosevelt

Calls It Privilege to Be Identified With Fight on Prohibition.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt has been appointed national secretary of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, succeeding Mrs. Courtland Nicoll, who resigned last week before sailing to spend the summer in Europe.

Mrs. Roosevelt has been a member of the national executive committee and chairman of the junior committee of the New York State division.

"I have been fortunate enough to have had a part in the organization since the very beginning," said Mrs. Roosevelt in commenting on her appointment. "It has been a great privilege to know and work with the high-minded and public-spirited women who are giving unstintingly of their strength and time in order to rid our country of the evils which the present system of prohibition has brought about."

Librarians to Hear Prison Chief.

What librarians can do to increase reading opportunities for prisoners will be discussed by Austin H. MacCormick, assistant director of the U. S. Bureau of Prisons, before the Institution Libraries Round Table of the American Library Association June 25, at Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

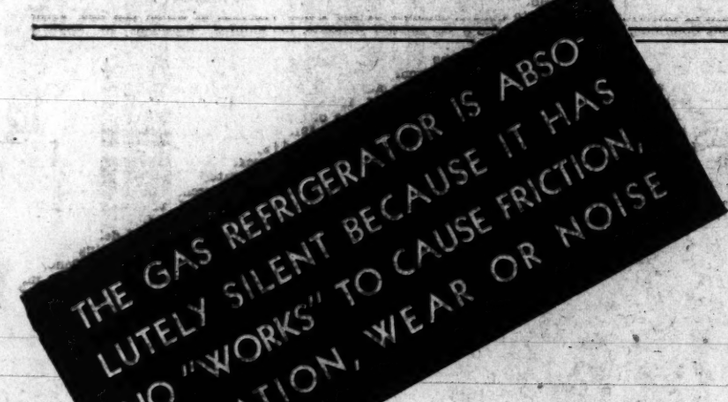
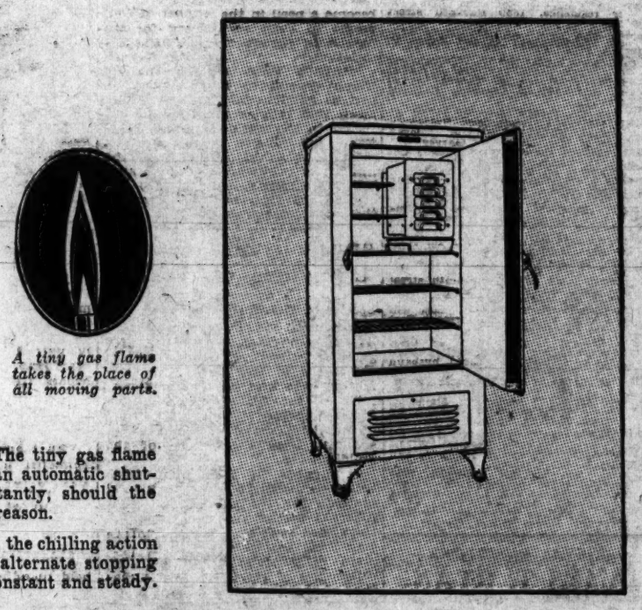
"THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH, YIELDING PLACE TO NEW"

Silence

is the Sign of an Up-to-date Refrigerator





THE SENATOR—a roomy, beautiful Electrolux model—extremely popular for families of four to six persons.

A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

WHO WANTS to buy a noisy automatic refrigerator today when for the same price you can get a modern gas refrigerator, entirely free from noise and moving parts?

This remarkable refrigerator never can grow noisy as long as you have it. It has nothing to wear loose within a year or two, nothing to vibrate and annoy.

And it costs less to use than any other kind of refrigeration—automatic or ice. SIX CENTS A DAY IS THE AVERAGE TOTAL COST IN WASHINGTON—and that covers both gas and water!

In Electrolux, a tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water are the whole "works." They act on a liquid refrigerant which is hermetically sealed in rigid steel. This refrigerant is ordinary ammonia, little stronger than household ammonia. The tiny gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shut-off. The gas shuts off instantly, should the flame ever go out for any reason.

And, in the Gas Refrigerator, the chilling action is continuous. There is no alternate stopping and starting. The cold is constant and steady. Ice cubes freeze quickly.

FREE LIFETIME SERVICE. Because Electrolux has no machinery or moving parts to wear, become noisy, or need attention, it rarely requires service. But if some adjustment ever should be needed, our trained men are ready to give you prompt, efficient service. AND YOUR GAS COMPANY PROMISES YOU THIS SERVICE, FREE, FOR THE LIFE OF YOUR REFRIGERATOR!

TWO YEARS TO PAY, NO FINANCE CHARGES—For a short time only, you can have your Electrolux installed for a small down payment, with two years to pay the balance. Since there are absolutely no finance charges, this makes the payments average only $10 a month—and you'll save most of this because of the extremely low operating cost of Electrolux.

By all means, see Electrolux before you buy any other refrigerator. Come to any one of our showrooms. Then you'll realize why this automatic refrigerator is the choice of leading architects and builders—why it is in thousands of the finest homes and apartments all over the country.

There are eleven different household models to choose from. Prices are no higher than for other makes—$235 to $775, installed. For complete information by mail, write us, or phone NAtional 8280.

Our Chevy Chase and Columbia Heights Branches are open from 7 to 9 every evening except Sunday

FRIENDSHIP 'ENVOYS' START NORTH TODAY

Round of Activities Here Precedes Departure for European Tour.

Thrilled with their visit to Washington and anticipating with keen interest the trip ahead, the "Envoys of Friendship," a group of boys and girls representative of the four quarters of America, will leave this morning en route to Europe on a good-will trip sponsored by the United States Flag Association. In the party will be Thomas J. Hayes 3d and Miss Dorothy Skirm, selected to represent the high schools of Washington in a contest conducted by the Flag Association with the cooperation of The Washington Post.

Celebration of Flag Day yesterday proved the climax of the trip to Washington for the "Envoys." Assembled in the Italian Garden of the Mayflower Hotel they listened to a concert by the United States Marine Band Orchestra, played especially in their honor, and then witnessed a showing of the official United States Army film of the "Burial of the Unknown Soldier." Col. James A. Moss, president general of the Flag Association, made a short talk accompanying the film.

Tribute to Unknown Soldier.

Col. Moss paid a tender tribute to the Unknown Soldier, declaring that he was the representative of the youth of a decade ago, who went forth blithely to give themselves for the preservation of world freedom. He declared that the Unknown, could he speak today, would advocate the mission of the "Envoys of Friendship," which is to lay a foundation for universal peace through the establishment of friendship among the children of today who will be its rulers tomorrow. He told the envoys that upon them devolves a solemn duty of making the first overtures of friendship to the children of the lands which they are to visit.

Following the talk the "envoys" went to Arlington where they placed a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier as a tribute from the youth of America.

The "envoys" leave this morning at 8:15 o'clock, going direct to Fort McHenry, where Francis Scott Key was inspired to write "The Star-Spangled Banner." From Baltimore they go to Philadelphia, where they will visit points of patriotic interest. Tomorrow morning they will be received by Mayor Harry A. Mackey, leaving immediately afterward for Valley Forge, where soldiers of the Revolution, their feet in rags instead of shoes, endured all for what they thought was right.

The party will go to New York Wednesday morning, sailing for Plymouth, England, late that afternoon.

Los Angeles to Be Escort.

The commandant of the Brooklyn Navy Yard will have the Navy Yard Band render a concert on the pier in honor of the "envoys." As the ship is leaving her berth the band will play the "Marseillaise," "God Save the King" and "The Star-Spangled Banner." The Navy Department has ordered the Los Angeles, the largest aircraft in America, to New York for the purpose of escorting down the harbor the ship conveying the "envoys."

The "envoys" will reach Plymouth, Tuesday, June 23. They will be received the following morning in the Guild Hall by the lord mayor, after which they will visit points of interest. While in London they will attend a children's good-will meeting in the Guild Hall at which will be present the lord mayor and other notables and a thousand boys and girls representing the youth organizations and schools of London.

In Paris the party will be the guests of President Paul Doumer at luncheon, either at the Elysees in Paris or at Rambouillet the French "Summer White House." A number of entertaining features have been arranged for the Paris visit, including a children's meeting similar to the one in London that will be held on the grounds of the International Exposition, using as a background Mount Vernon, which is the basic feature of the United States exhibit.

Dog's Attack Costs $5.

Worcester, Mass., June 14 (U.P.).—The alley cat, often the target for shoes and other missiles, came into its own in district court here when Mrs. Statia Sigel was fined $5 for urging her police dog to attack one.

Cornell to Give Diplomas To 9 Washington Students

Miss Mildred E. O'Brien on the left and Miss Marian R. Weed, two Washington girls who will receive degrees from Cornell University, at its graduation exercises today.

3 District Boys and 6 Girls Among 925 Who Graduate Today.

Washington will be well represented at the sixty-third commencement exercises at Cornell University today when President Livingston Farrand will give 9 of the 925 degrees to be conferred to District residents.

Henry H. Rousseau, Smith Simpson, Josephine A. Beals, Mildred E. O'Brien and Marian R. Weed are all candidates for the degree of bachelor of arts. Richard B. Essex, of Chevy Chase, is a candidate for the degree of civil engineer. Emily K. Blake, Jane K. Marshall and Effie O. Wade are candidates for the degree of bachelor of science in home economics.

Rousseau was active in a variety of undergraduate activities. He won his "C" in varsity football in his junior year and was also on the varsity track squad in his sophomore year and a member of the Cornell polo team in his senior year.

Simpson distinguished himself in scholarship and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society. In his senior year he organized and edited the Cornell Contemporary, a magazine for the expression of graduate student opinion. He is also a member of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity.

Essex was a member of the varsity track squad for three years and the college honor committee for three year and chairman of the committee in his senior year. He was a member of the Rod and Bob, a social society in the Civil Engineering College. He is also affiliated with the Sigma Nu Fraternity.

Miss Beals was a member of the women's hockey team for three years and of the farmers' week committee for two years. She is affiliated with the Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority.

Miss Beals was a members of the varsity rifle team for four years and of the Dot and Circle, a club of women interested in rifle shooting. She was a member of the Dramatic Club for three years and belongs to the Chi Omega Sorority.

Miss Marshall is a member of Omicron Nu, honorary society for students in home economics, and also a members of the Alpha Phi Sorority.

Miss O'Brien is a member of the Kappa Delta Sorority.

Miss Weed was a member of the women's crew in her sophomore year and of the track team in her senior years. She was also a member of Cercle Francais, a group consisting of students interested in the French language and literature.

Miss Wade is a member of the Omicron Nu Society and the Kappa Delta Sorority. She was the holder of the nonresident scholarship in home economics.

MAY EMPLOYMENT UNDER APRIL MARK

Labor Department Reports 42,000 Fewer on Industrial Pay Roll.

(Associated Press.)

The Labor Department announced yesterday that there were approximately 42,000 less men on industrial payrolls at the end of May than there were in April.

Data gathered by the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed that 46,031 establishments in fifteen major industrial groups had 4,721,032 persons on their payrolls in May and paid them $115,617,936. This was a decrease of nine-tenths of 1 per cent in both men and payrolls.

Increased employment was shown in the power, light and water group, which rose one-half of 1 per cent, and in dyeing and cleaning, which showed a 1 per cent increase.

Decreases were shown in the other groups as follows: Manufacturing, 5 per cent; anthracite mining, 5.7; bituminous coal mining, 4.1; metal mining, 2.4; quarrying and non-metallic mining, 1.5; crude petroleum, 2.9; telephone and telegraph, 8; electric railroads, 1; wholesale trade, 4; retail trade, 2; hotels, 3.5; canning and preserving, 6.1 and laundries, 2.

Increases in employment in the food, lumber, stone, clay, glass, tobacco and vehicle manufacturing industries were reported, but the total of 2,858,058 employes in 13,876 manufacturing establishments was one-half of 1 per cent under April. The greatest increase in any one manufacturing industry reporting was 8 per cent in woolen and worsted manufacture and the greatest decrease a seasonal decline of 37.4 per cent in the fertilizer industry.

Increased employment and pay roll totals were shown in the South Atlantic, West South Central, Mountain and Pacific geographical divisions. The East and West North Central divisions were virtually unchanged, while the remaining divisions showed decreases in pay rolls and employment, with the greatest drop occurring in the Middle Atlantic division.

Caraway Attacks Republican Parley

Says 7,000,000 Workers Have Been Reduced to Beggary.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, yesterday used the conference of "young Republicans" here as the basis for an attack upon the Hoover administration.

"The young Republicans, who, by the way, average about 55 years of age, have concluded a very 'successful' conference in Washington," he said in a statement issued through the Democratic national committee. "They were addressed by that ardent young Republican, Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, and stage managed by that liberal, Robert H. Lucas. * * *

"It remained, however, for the crowning gesture to be made by William Sherman Green, Republican, from New Jersey, who said the way to get enthusiasm among Republicans was to 'feed them—and feed them plenty.' * * *

"The truth is 'feed them' has been the cry of 7,000,000 of honest workingmen and their dependents who have been reduced to beggary under this progressive administration of Mr. Hoover and in whose honor to applaud these young Republicans were called to Washington."

THE PUBLIC AND RADIO.

Monopoly in radio communication is a grave question which can not be settled too soon or too definitely. Ether channels through which broadcasters may operate are extremely limited. Under any circumstances many concerns that would like to engage in radio communication must be denied the privilege. Those companies which are granted the rights of the air must be kept under the strictest regulation. The public welfare is the fulcrum on which all questions of utilizing radio channels should turn.

It is well that the District Supreme Court decided not to interfere with the hearings that are scheduled for this week before the Radio Commission. The Radio Corporation of America is accused of indulging in monopolistic practices. Whether or not those accusations are true is for the commission to decide. Certainly there could be no excuse for tying the hands of the commission when it is endeavoring to probe to the bottom of the case.

The Federal courts recently held that the Radio Corporation had violated the antitrust laws in its tube contracts with other companies, and the Supreme Court refused to review the decision. The radio act forbids the Radio Commission to issue licenses to concerns which have been found guilty of monopoly or attempted monopoly. Should the commission find it necessary to apply this section against R. C. A., the 1,400 licenses held by that corporation and its subsidiaries could not be renewed. In that event a long legal battle could be expected, for the company contends that the section of the law referred to is unconstitutional.

The Radio Commission has not hesitated to take independent stations off the air for violation of law. In this case the commission is expected to decide whether the practices of R. C. A. constitute a violation of the radio act. If so, the law should be rigorously applied. It was enacted to protect the interests of the people from monopolistic concerns. Congress foresaw that attempts would be made to establish unified control over the radio industry, and sought to prevent it. If this statute should be invalid, new protective legislation will be enacted.

"It is inconceivable," said Mr. Hoover while he was Secretary of Commerce, "that the American people will allow this newborn system of communication to fall exclusively into the power of any individual, group or combination." The question of monopoly should be met squarely and resolved in accordance with the public interest.

CHECKING INCOME TAXES.

Discrepancies in Federal and State income tax returns will be largely prevented and at least readily detected by means of the executive order just issued by President Hoover, which opens individual Federal income tax returns to the scrutiny of officials of States having income tax laws. This is a privilege that the States have long sought in order that they might avail themselves of a comparative check. To put the case politely with regard to differences that might exist in the two classes of returns, State authorities feel that Federal reports possibly are, in some cases, more accurately prepared.

To say that the blanks of the National Government contain a more inclusive summary of income due to the broader scope of Federal laws and that a more powerful and relentless system of enforcement is connected with the Washington tax office is not to cast a reflection upon the accuracy of State returns, and yet some State officials must have been suspicious. Anyhow, if a governor of any one of the States having income levies makes the request his tax sleuths can search the records at the Capital and see if Mr. Prominent Citizen is playing fair with the home State treasury.

The new order of the President is put out through the Treasury Department, with amplifying regulations which revise and enlarge the rights of interested parties to examine individual returns. They may be seen, not only by State officials, but by the person who made the return, the beneficiaries under a will or the next of kin. The joint return of a husband and wife is hereafter to be open to inspection of either spouse who may have become a bit suspicious, upon satisfactory evidence of the marital relationship being presented.

The more prosaic forms of partnership relating to business also are afforded the privileges of the precautionary double check. Any individual who was a member of the partnership during any part of the time covered by a tax return may have access to its details, and in case of death the same right extends to the administrator, executor or trustee of his estate. So it is clear that the Federal Government has no desire to withhold any information from States that will assist them in more readily or efficiently enforcing the law or from families or partners that will enable them to assert their rights.

THE CANTON REVOLT.

Sympathy goes out to Dr. C. C. Wu, who has announced his resignation as Chinese Minister to the United States because of the prospects of war between his native city, Canton, and the Nationalist government which he represented. It was indeed a perplexing situation for Dr. Wu to be representing China at Washington while the United States is permitting the export of arms to Nanking for use against his own townsmen. Under the circumstances Dr. Wu had no alternative to resignation.

But the sympathy which is extended to him will be largely personal. The cause of the Cantonese is not one to elicit support from the American people. Canton has rebelled against the National government and set up a rival regime of its own. Wang Ching-Wei, rebel leader, could not resist the temptation of playing for higher stakes than he was offered under President Chiang-Kai-Shek. To gratify personal and sectional interests he was willing to sacrifice the unity of China.

The National government, which operates at Nanking, is by no means a model of excellence. It does not pretend to be representative of all the pepple, but only claims devotion to the task of preparing the people for self-government and to the ideal of a unified China. Imperfect as it is, the National government is the only force that saves China from chaos. No other faction is strong enough to maintain a stable government, and every weakening of national authority leads to fresh atrocities by the Communist hordes. In view of the strength that Communism has already attained in some sections the situation of China would be pitiful if the National government should be overthrown.

Realizing these conditions, the Government at Washington allows Chinese authorities to purchase arms in the United States. That may seem harsh to Dr. Wu, but it is no doubt a great service to the Chinese people If the Nationalists can strengthen their position there may be no bloodshed. Chinese rebels are easily bribed to maintain the peace when superior forces take the field against them. Any move to strengthen the National government may be considered as an aid to early peace and stability in China.

GERMANY'S LIMITED NAVY.

Germany, in the midst of her financial troubles, has launched her "pocket battleship." The time is not exactly auspicious, in view of German appeals for international assistance. However, this one ship, efficient as it is reputed to be, does not constitute a serious menace to neighboring nations. It is one of the six ships of this tonnage that the Treaty of Versailles permits Germany to build. Immediate prospects for building the rest are not bright, owing to the decided opposition of the Socialists to appropriations.

The naval world is much interested, nevertheless, in the ship being completed at Kiel and the innovations made in its construction. It has a speed of 30 knots and is said to have maneuverability that never has been equaled. By utilizing light metals and by replacing riveting processes by welding, weight has been kept down to 10,000 tons, but the ship has a fighting strength far in excess of its tonnage, equaling that of many larger battleships.

The guns of this new "armored cruiser A" outrange the guns of cruisers of equal size by nearly eight miles, and its modern oil-burning engines give it exceptionally wide cruising radius. Aside from this new vessel Germany's navy is now composed of craft that are mostly of antiquated type and problematical value. There remain but four ships of the line of about 13,000 tons each, the Schleswig-Holstein, Schlesien, Hannover and Hessen. Of the six small cruisers of 6,000 tons allowed under the treaty, Germany has built five; the twelve destroyers of 800 tons each were completed four years ago. Torpedo boats and auxiliary vessels of the navy are all antiquated and Germany is not permitted submarines or aircraft carriers. Coupled with this limited navy is the further treaty provision that the total man power of the navy may not exceed 15,000. So it is evident that Germany's sea power can not be developed to a degree that would constitute a threat to powerful neighbors.

THE THIRD DEGREE.

A New York jury recently refused to convict a man because he had been made to confess under pressure of the third degree. This incident, coupled with several recent articles on the brutality of this system, has given rise to the idea that the police employ methods a little less severe than those of the ancient torture chamber. The third degree ordeal at the hands of brutal officers is a hideous perversion of authority. Under it victims have "confessed" crimes they never committed. There is little evidence, however, that brutality in police quizzes is of common occurrence.

The police, sometimes find it necessary to employ the third degree because the public will not cooperate in giving information. Rather than be involved in a case, witnesses withhold valuable information. As a rule this is due to their desire to avoid the inconvenience of having to go to court, though in some cases witnesses under threat of death are afraid to testify.

The fact that a prisoner can refuse to speak until he has conferred with his lawyer raises a barrier which sometimes enables the guilty to escape. This obstacle is overcome in some countries by having the prisoner make a sworn statement for use at the trial as soon as he is brought in, before he has had time to think things over or prepare a story with the aid of his lawyer. The system used in Latin America today is that of the Napoleonic code. A prisoner charged with a major crime is kept "incommunicado," so that he can not see or communicate with any one for three days. At the end of that time he is made to give his deposition before a judge. He does not know what witnesses may have said or how much the police may have found out, so that usually there is an incentive for him to tell the truth.

As American law provides no such methods, the police must resort to their own expedients to extract information. Any one who has ever seen the condition of a man after hours of terrific grilling must condemn the method as a disgrace to any legal system. Yet where perjury is so current that a prominent judge writing on that subject said he could remember no more than two cases he had ever tried where perjury was not suspected, and in cases where gangsters are virtually caught in the act, it is not to be expected that the police will refrain from subjecting prisoners to a rigid examination for the purpose of identifying their accomplices.

REGULATING REALTY SALES.

Real estate laws recently enacted in California are a great advance in the direction of eliminating fraud. It is no longer possible for a firm to sell "choice building lots" or "high grade agricultural land" on the top of a mountain peak or in the middle of a desert, and then, after a successful sales campaign, suddenly disappear. Every real estate broker must pass an examination in California. The test requires knowledge of a number of subjects, such as the legal effect of deeds, mortgages and contracts of sale, the obligation of a broker toward his clients, and a knowledge of land economics and appraisals. He must also file a bond of $2,000 with the real estate commissioner.

Salesmen employed by the broker must pass a more cursory examination and must be bonded as well. Yearly licenses are required. This strict supervision was brought about by the movement started some years ago by leading realtors of the State, who eventually secured passage of the measure by the Legislature.

The California real estate department, with the cooperation of the United States Department of Agriculture, the State Farm Bureau, and local organizations, has compiled data on virtually every section of the State, whereby a check can be applied to enterprises offering property to the public. The department, however, has no way to control property for sale by owner, or property lying in another State. If an owner palms off a piece of arid land as fine fruit soil the department can not interfere, as he is not a broker. Nor can the department supervise dealings where organizations sell property outside of California, even though the office is in that State.

The great number of strangers who go yearly to settle in California have profited by this law. The great subdivisions about the big cities, as well as the farming areas, are inspected by the department, and even the unfamiliar purchaser is now assured of reasonable value when he buys real estate.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 14.—The current national convention of advertising men indicates what a great business in itself scientific publicity has become. A few years ago advertising was a mere incident of merchandising which was given little thought. Now it is one of the corner stones of commerce.

Advertising has gained its important and permanent place by establishing the principle that it must tell the truth.

Formerly regarded as irresponsible trade talk intended mostly to challenge the attention, it has become a responsible guarantee designed to convince the understanding. Unless advertising meets that requirement it is now considered a costly failure. In the efforts made to eliminate waste in our commercial life none has been more important than the elimination of the waste of misrepresentation in advertising. With honest merchandise, conscientiously produced, truthfully advertised, and efficiently marketed the future of our country will be secure. We have the productive capacity, the raw materials, and the capital necessary for profitable business. Only the demand is lacking. It is the function of advertising to create the demand. More emphasis is required on that essential fact. The economic benefit of balanced consumption within the means of the purchaser is not yet fully understood. Better publicity is the answer.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

THE SIZE OF THE DEBTS

From the New York Herald Tribune.

In the various discussions of a reparations moratorium or debt cancellation the actual sums involved are seldom stated. It is not, of course, entirely correct to say that reparations are simply being paid by the allies into the hands of the United States. Under the Young plan Germany is obligated to pay in all some $27,000,000,000 up to 1988; in the same period the allies will pay out only about $20,000,000,000 in their debts to us, leaving them with a profit (going mainly to France) of $7,000,000,000. Nor are the two figures entirely comparable, since the $20,000,000,000 coming to us is spread over 59 years, while France, Italy and Belgium will collect their $7,000,000,000 in the first 37 years of the contract.

Up to 1966 Germany is obligated to pay in all about $19,000,000,000. Thus, while the French and other allies are collecting about $12,000,000,000 net, we shall collect only about $12,000,000,000. Such figures give a general idea of what would be involved in a total cancellation of the whole debt-reparation structure—though it might be added that those who speak of total cancellation usually seem to mean that the United States should cancel all debts owing to her, but that France and the other allies should continue to collect their $7,000,000,000 surplus.

As a practical matter, totals are of course less significant than current payments. At present we are receiving about $230,000,000 a year in debt payments; the British are just about breaking even between what they get on reparations and debts and what they pay us, and the French, Italians and Belgians are getting about $150,000,000 a year above what they pay on their war debts, the larger share going to France. Should a complete moratorium be declared, these figures would measure the burden thrown on the various taxpayers until payment was resumed. Our debt receipts come to about 6 per cent of what we raise by taxation, though it has been pointed out that a stoppage of debt payments would not necessarily mean an increase of taxation, as the loss might be taken up by slowing down debt redemption, to which the payments are now applied.

LOSS AND GAIN.

This thing called loss is difficult to sum.
The days of ease are over and the purse
No longer holds a stack of bills to thumb,
And there are endless debits to rehearse.

We've lost some little trinkets which we had,
But no true friend from us has been estranged,
Delights of old kept our spirits glad
Continue still unlessened and unchanged.

Whether 'tis much or little we possess
The beauty of all nature still is ours;
The fact that we must get along with less
Seems never to be noticed by the flowers.

What if we needs must dine on humbler fare
And turn our hands to labor once again?
We have but lost the thing which we could spare,
The lasting and the precious joys remain.

And yet sometimes forgetting love and friends
We count our money losses as a curse
And act as if all happiness depends
Upon the stuff that's carried in a purse.

If the Theories Are Impractical, Can the Theorists Do Practical Things?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

CHEERFUL news for Americans is coming out of Russia.

The only thing that could make the world safe for free workers is beginning to happen.

When the Russians began their "five-year plan" it was obvious to anybody who understood its possibilities that nothing less than economic revolution could save other countries if the plan succeeded.

Russia has a population greater than ours and resources greater than ours.

Given American brains and skill, she might have won the markets of the world.

Imagine a vast nation, mobilized and organized as a single manufacturing enterprise, directed by ruthless men possessed of absolute power, and served by millions forced to labor at starvation wages.

Imagine school children taught to believe such a system the ultimate perfection of human liberty and taught to look upon private gain as something vile and disgraceful.

Obviously a nation so organized and so taught could in the course of time build factories and produce goods so cheaply that competitors would be unable to live.

What chance would competitors have if Standard Oil could seize oil lands at its pleasure, draft labor at its own price, decide for itself what taxes to pay and operate without thought of dividends?

That, in theory, was the situation in Russia.

It was a menace to every citizen of every land where free men work when and where they wish and take what profit they can get in fair competition.

The success of the plan meant that other nations would have to mobilize in some similar fashion or go under.

Optimists said there was nothing to fear, but their optimism was based on hope or lack of understanding. Now it begins to appear that they were right, but for a reason they never suspected.

Russia's new factories, built and equipped by Americans, are failing to produce goods. Machines break for want of expert care.

The Russian is a dreamer, not a mechanic. He hasn't the Yankee knack of tinkering. Full of zeal and fine theories, he is as helpless in a machine shop as a Jap or a woman.

Therein is the hope of the world. Russia may dump grain and raw materials, but the menace is gone if she can't keep the wheels turning.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

The Cost of Air Mail.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

With the Hoover Administration swinging a heavy meat cleaver hither and yon in desperate attempts to reduce the budget and prevent a tax increase that might turn voters from the camp of the G. O. P., one item of the postal deficit naturally is attractive bait.

Air mail service loses something like $17,000,000 a year to the Government. Rates to the public are moderate enough to stimulate use of air mail, yet payments to carriers are large enough to enable them to operate, as most of them could not without Federal assistance. Here is a conspicuous example of the failure of the postal service to be self-supporting. From the standpoint of sound fiscal policy something ought to be done about it.

But it would be shortsighted indeed to regard the question of air mail contracts and rates as merely a problem in accounting. Far more important than the added swiftness of mail service by plane is the stimulus to the air transportation given through air mail subsidies, for the Government's policy has been, in effect, a subsidy.

Once More the Cross of Gold.
Minneapolis Journal.

Having found that Government ukase can not increase the money value of commodities, the Progressives at Washington now turn to a scheme to decrease, by international ukase, the commodity value of money. If they can not get $2 wheat one way, they purpose getting it another way. And the scheme upon which they look with favor is the hoary old Bryan contraption of free silver.

Remonetization of the white metal, a visiting director of a London bank tells these Americans, at an arbitrary ratio of 20 to 1 with gold will do the trick. Loud cheers from the boys that believe prosperity can be achieved by legislative magic.

Assuming that the scheme would work—which it wouldn't—how would anybody, except silver mine owners, gain by it? What earthly good would it do to treble the money value of commodities, if the same process would inevitably reduce by two-thirds the value of the money received for the commodities?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Municipal Garages the Only Solution of Parking Problem and Traffic Congestion.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Instead of making such absurd suggestions as to remove the trees from the Mall and Monument Grounds to provide parking space for automobiles of office and shop employes, as one of your correspondents did recently, would it not be a better plan to handle this problem from a different angle? The abolition of angle parking and parking downtown between 8 and 9:30 a. m. has proved a relief to street car patrons because they can now ride to and from their places of business in less time than when the streets were cluttered with automobiles parked at angles, but it has seriously inconvenienced automobile users who require all-day parking downtown.

The traffic problem will always remain a baffling one unless something more than road building or street widening and improvement is done to solve it. Parking space obviously is as essential as good roads or wider streets, as something must be done with automobiles when not in use. The erection and maintenance of public garages apparently is as much a legitimate function of a municipality as is the provision of municipal golf courses, swimming pools, athletic fields and recreation centers.

Motorists in neighboring States are taxed twice as much and more for gasoline as are residents of the District, and in addition pay far more annually for their automobile tags than do Washingtonians. If our neighbors can stand the expense it certainly can be borne by us, and the proceeds used for the acquirement of sites and erection of municipal garages charging a nominal or cost rental by the day, week or month.

Municipal garages would do much to improve the appearance of the streets as well as to relieve traffic congestion, for cars kept indoors when not in use would retain their pristine splendor longer.

Municipal garages are needed not only in the downtown area to accommodate all-day parkers, but also in residential sections where there is garage shortage so that the streets could be cleared of all-night parkers.

The Long Island State Park Commission in developing Jones Beach, near Fire Island, not only provided a magnificent causeway to the beach from the mainland wide enough to accommodate the heaviest traffic, but also provided a sunken area for parking some 60,000 cars, it is said, in regimental formation, a charge of 25 cents being made for each car. The depressed parking space prevents the thousands of parked cars spoiling the view of the seascape. The hundreds of thousands of visitors who go to the beach on Sundays or holidays to bathe or picnic have no parking worries, thanks to the foresight of the planners, who realized that cars need space in which to stand as well as to move.

LEWIS L. YOUNG.

Questions Expediency of a Tax on Stock Sales.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a recent letter to The Post Col. C. G. Degman advocates raising revenue by imposing a tax of 1 per cent on corporation stock sales.

It is extremely difficult to accurately estimate the revenue that a tax of this character would produce. For some time the people of this country have been stock-minded. As a result the sale of stock has led all other forms of corporate investment. How long this will last nobody knows. It is not likely, however, that the tax would increase sales, but would retard them. There would be fewer tax sales subject to the payment of the tax. Consequently, the revenue yield might be less than anticipated.

Another loss in revenue would be due to the fact that payment of this tax would eliminate the item of profit on this sale in the income tax of the vender of stock.

New corporate enterprise would be discouraged; for, wise and conservative business would regard the immediate payment of this tax as such an impairment of capital as could not be readily absorbed by operating profits. They might also have to answer for such impairment to the State that gave them corporate being.

No change in method of taxation should be made that would simply substitute new machinery for the old, or create unequality of burden.

LEONIDDS W. ELLIS.

Next President, a Democrat, Will Bring the Whole World Under One Government.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial on our high tariff sounds like the death squall of a stabbed Indian. Wonder what you fellows would do with another Woodrow Wilson in the White House? It is the opinion of this writer that you'll have one on March 4, 1933, and that he'll spend his first efforts in bringing this whole world under one government as the thirteen colonies were brought by George Washington, et al., in 1789, after six years of envy and hatred and tariff walls and embargoes, such as we're having now.

Most any one ought to be able to see now that we are threatened with another Shays' Rebellion already, and it'll be a miracle if we miss it ere relief comes as indicated.

LABOR CRISIS TRUCE BLOCKED BY 2 MEN

Lloyd George and Snowden Are Adamant as Test Looms Tomorrow.

London, June 14 (A.P.).—England's second Labor government, harassed by the economic depression, unemployment and mounting taxes, will face a major crisis Tuesday night because two men are unable to agree.

Representing opposite thoughts on land taxes, Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, is insisting that his proposed tax on land values go through, while David Lloyd George is insisting that the Liberal amendment to the bill should be accepted. This would deplete the expected revenue from the tax.

Between these two leaders it is believed some compromise must be reached before Tuesday if the Labor government of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald is to go undefeated.

Outcome Is in Doubt.

The Liberals, under the lash of Sir John Simon, submitted the amendment, which would permit land owners to deduct income taxes paid on land from the land tax, holding it is unfair to tax the owners twice on their property.

It was recalled that Lloyd George's budget 22 years ago carried provisions very similar to this, but they were quickly dropped because of opposition from all walks of life.

It has not been announced whether MacDonald's government will resign if it is defeated in the forthcoming vote in the House of Commons.

The alternatives to resigning would be to force a general election or to submit to the amendment, which undoubtedly would result in the resignation of Snowden.

On the other hand, neither the Liberals nor the Laborites are greatly desirous of "going to the country" for a vote at present.

Says "Days Are Numbered."

The Labor party, particularly, has reasons to wish to evade an election now. The defection of the followers of Sir Oswald Mosley toward a "new party" is not reassuring and they believe that the Conservatives also would profit at the expense of the Liberals.

In discussing the outlook at a party rally at Southampton today Stanley Baldwin said the present government's "days are numbered."

"We can not tell how long this pact between the two parties (Liberals and Laborites) is going to last," he said.

This sentiment was repeated by Neville Chamberlain at New Castle, who said: "Watch out, for the moment may come any time now."

Meanwhile, commentators are divided as to whether the government will be defeated Tuesday, the majority forecasting some sort of compromise will be effected.

KLEIN PICTURES U.S. IN BENEFACTOR ROLE

Commerce Official Denies America Is Shylock Among Nations.

(Associated Press.)

The United States was pictured as a world benefactor by Assistant Secretary Klein, of the Commerce Department, last night, speaking over a national chain of the Columbia Broadcasting system.

Taking as his subject "Is Uncle Sam a Skinflint?" Dr. Klein flouted charges by foreign agitators who, he said, have pictured the United States as a Shylock demanding his pound of flesh.

He cited figures to show that between 1914 and 1930 the United States and its citizens had loaned foreigners $23,000,000,000, including the World War loans, and invested abroad more than $5,000,000,000 additional.

Americans, he said, have lost millions of dollars through the collapse of foreign investments, and recently two foreign governments have suspended payments on their indebtedness to Americans.

"We have derived profits, to be sure," said Klein. "We have had our interest payments. That is the normal course of business. But here is the other side of the picture—a side that deserves to be rather brilliantly 'high-lighted.'

"Foreign countries and foreign business have derived amply gigantic benefits from the use of these billions of dollars that Americans have made available. World welfare has been incalculably enhanced through American money. Material and social progress has been stimulated, energized, effectively pushed forward. Civilization has been served."

Clara Barton Plea Carried to Hoover

President Is Urged to See Proper Honor Is Done Apostle of Relief.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was urged yesterday to see that "proper honor is done" to Clara Barton in National Red Cross Headquarters in an open letter from Mercer G. Johnston, director of the People's Legislative Service.

Coupling his appeal with reference to the Chief Executive's trip to Marion, Ohio, Mr. Johnston cited tributes from President Hoover, Chief Justice Hughes and others to the "Apostle of Relief, Clara Barton."

"And yet Clara Barton is today an Ishmaelite in National Red Cross headquarters," Mr. Johnston said, adding, "There she is treated as an outcast, hopelessly smeared, whose name and face are unfit to adorn the walls of the pure marble place within which the secretary and other members of the central committee sit and vigorously carry on the ministry to suffering humanity which Clara Barton inaugurated, and in her own person 'gloriously prosecuted.'

Briand Puts Peace Appeal to Women

French Foreign Minister Launches World Plea for Support.

Gourdon, France, June 14 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand this afternoon launched an earnest plea to the women of the world to support his work in behalf of universal peace with all their energies.

In a moving oration the veteran statesman, who a month ago was defeated for the Presidency of France, vigorously defended his pacific policy. His message was addressed to nearly 5,000 French war veterans and their mothers, wives, sisters and daughters.

"I count on the women," he shouted. "It is to them that I turn, and if I felt any profound joy today it is to see in their eyes so much joy at the thought that the cause of peace will continue to be defended."

Campbell Sent To New Post in Cairo, Egypt

Counselor of British Embassy Leaves Capital Next Month.

ALTHOUGH his transfer is awaiting official confirmation, Mr. Ronald Ian Campbell, Counselor of the British Embassy, has been ordered to Cairo, Egypt, where he will also serve in the capacity of counselor. Mr. Campbell plans to leave Washington the middle of next month for Europe, preparatory to assuming the duties of his new post.

Considered one of the most attractive of the British Embassy bachelors, "Ronny" Campbell, during his station of several years in Washington, has been much sought after by members of the Capital's smartest cliques, both residential and diplomatic. He came here as counselor, succeeding Sir Henry Getty Chilton, now serving as British Ambassador to Chile.

In Cairo Mr. Campbell will have opportunity to renew friendship with Mr. and Mrs. Hoyer-Millar. The Hoyer-Millars were in Washington recently as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Glover. Mrs. Hoyer-Millars' grandparents. Mr. Hoyer-Millar received his appointment as Second Secretary of the British Embassy in Cairo shortly after his marriage to Miss Elizabeth van Swinderen, in London, and he and his young wife came to Washington for a visit before going to Egypt.

Many changes have been made in the personnel of the British Embassy staff in Washington in the last year. Sir John Joyce Broderick, who served here for many years as commercial counselor, is now British Minister to Cuba, and his successor in Washington, Mr. H. O. Chalkley, arrived in the capital only recently to take over his new duties. Capt. J. S. M. Ritchie, who completed three years of duty in Washington in March, as naval attache, has been replaced by Capt. Patrick MacNamara. Col. Maurice Fitzpatrick Day is the new military attache, succeeding Col. L. H. R. Pope-Hennessy, and the position of third secretary, vacated several months ago by young Michael Wright, has been filled by Mr. Mark Watson.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Wood will sail from New York Thursday for France. They will be accompanied by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Logan McCoy, of Overbrook, Pa.

Arts Club to Present Recital Tomorrow.

The Arts Club will present a musical recital tomorrow evening, when the artists will be Mrs. Katherine Warder Smith, pianist, and Mr. T. S. Hess, French horn player. Miss Blanche Polkinhorn and Mr. Mercer Vernon will be the hosts.

The Arts Club calls attention to its short story contest, under sponsorship of "The Mill," conducted by Mr. Carlton Van Valkenburg. A prize is offered for the best short story of not over 3,000 words, to be written by a club member. Stories must be submitted to "The Mill" on or before July 1.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harmon and their daughter, Virginia Lee, of Cadool, Mo., are guests of Mrs. Harmon's sister, Miss Edna A. Laws.

Mr. Jack E. Rickards, of Oak Park, Ill., is staying at the Potomac Park Apartments while on a visit here.

Mrs. Daniel Richardson, of Elmira, N. Y., is spending a few days at the Shoreham Hotel.

Retired British Royal Marine To Be Reception Guest.

Mrs. Mabelle Honour, of 1325 New Hampshire avenue, will give a reception tomorrow evening, in Pierce Hall, All Souls' Unitarian Church, in honor of Maj. Herbert Morriss, retired, British Royal Marines, and Mrs. Morriss.

Mr. and Mrs. David Edward Finley, who were at the St. Regis, in New York, following their marriage last Wednesday at Oatlands, Va., sailed Saturday night on the Bremen. While abroad they will visit the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, on the Riviera.

Mrs. E. R. Harris, of Boston, Mass., has joined Col. Harris at the Powhatan.

Mrs. Charles G. Hammett will entertain a small party at dinner on the Shoreham Terrace this evening.

Three Former First Ladies in Country Club

Mesdames Coolidge, Taft and Wilson Join in Last Year.

Three former "first ladies" are among new members this year of the National Woman's Country Club. They are Mrs. William Howard Taft, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge. The club has attracted wide attention both because of the picturesque clubhouse in nearby Maryland and because of the interesting women to be met there at club events, which have been numerous and successful, under the leadership of the president, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman.

A series of dinner dances has been given on Friday nights in June and will be continued as long as there is sufficient demand for them, according to Mrs. Tuckerman. Under direction of Miss Florence E. Ward, treasurer and chairman of the house committee, new lights have been installed for the illumination of the outdoor dancing floor.

Mrs. Henry Price Wright, chairman of the grounds committee, has been responsible for some very effective planting about the club in the last two months, for which Miss Rose Greely, widely known landscape architect, drew plans.

Mrs. Guy V. Henry, chairman, and Mrs. Mark Bristol, vice chairman of the golf committee, will continue supervision of development of the golf course which is to be opened formally the first of October.

Mrs. John W. Holcombe, chairman of the bridge committee, has been in charge of bridge luncheons that have been held on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, and will continue to arrange these events throughout the summer.

Tomorrow evening Mrs. Arthur MacArthur will give a large dinner dance for her debutante daughter, Miss Mary Elizabeth MacArthur, and Miss Louise Brooks, granddaughter of Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, who is one of the vice presidents of the club.

A new annex will be completed for opening of the fall season, when out-of-town members may reserve rooms for a limited time.

Mrs. Mills Will Exhibit Flowers at Show.

Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, wife of the Undersecretary of the Treasury, is included in the group of prominent New York women who will hold exhibits at the annual Oyster Bay flower show Wednesday and Thursday in the auditorium of St. Dominic's Church, Oyster Bay, Long Island.

During her residence in Washington, Mrs. Mills depends on the airplane for flowers from her estate on Long Island, where she occasionally supervises the care of her greenhouses, noted for their fine specimens of gardenias and orchids.

Mrs. H. Bradley Davidson sailed Saturday for England, where she will spend the summer. Her daughter, Miss Louise Davidson, will be at Roscraggon Inn, Skyland, N. C., for the season.

After spending the spring months in Paris, Mr. and Mrs. Kennyth N. Gilpin, of Boyce, Va., are now in London. Accompanied by Mrs. Gilpin's mother, Mrs. Lawrence D. Thyson, they are occupying an apartment at the Stratton House. Later they will go to Scotland for the shooting season, afterwards visiting Germany, Belgium and Holland. They will sail for this country in September.

Col. and Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee, accompanied by their son, Lieut. Fletcher Cole, U. S. A., have arrived in Washington after spending June week at West Point, where Lieut. Cole was a member of the graduating class. They will spend several days at the Mayflower en route to their country place, Mon Repos, at Marietta, Ga.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter has gone to Lake Forest, Ill., where she has taken a house for the early summer season in order to be near her son, Thomas Leiter, who is in business in Chicago.

With her are her daughter, Miss Nancy Leiter, and her niece, Miss Audrey Campbell. Miss Campbell's brother, Colin Campbell, is also established in Chicago.

Mrs. Sarah Lee Phillips and her grandson, Mr. Walter E. Edge, jr., son of the United States Ambassador to France, are on the high seas en route to France, where they will spend the summer with the ambassador. Miss Rosa Lee, of New Orleans, sister of Mrs. Phillips, is in the party.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harris have closed their apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue, and gone to Westport, Conn., where they have taken a cottage with Mrs. Harris' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Dunkle, of New York, for the summer.

The Commandant of Fort Myer and Mrs. Harry N. Cootes are spending a few days in New York. They will return Wednesday.

Col. F. E. Johnston entertained at dinner at the Shoreham Terrace Saturday evening.

Other hosts there included Mrs. John Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. Michael London, Col. R. A. Warren, Mr. V. P. Ahearn, Mr. and Mrs. B. Alexander Singer, Col. R. A. Warren, Capt. A. G. Bailey, Mr. Philip Friedlander, Mr. John Hicks, Mr. L. A. Bond, Mr. R. R. Hendon, Mr. A. C. Littlefield, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Mueller, Mrs. Florence Brown Mills, Mr. G. D Patterson, Mr. W. B. Spenks, Mrs. Ashmeade and Mr. J. Sheridan Biays.

Mrs. Henry C. Corbin has returned from Europe, and is with her sisters, the Misses Patten, at their home on Massachusetts avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Ergar Seckner have as their guests in their apartment at the Broadmoor, the latter's nephew, Mr. Earle D. Hulse, of Rochester, N. Y.

Senator's Son To Take Bride Next Saturday

Felix Patout Broussard Will Wed Miss Rachel Powell.

Miss Rachel Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Powell, whose marriage to Mr. Felix Patout Broussard, son of Senator and Mrs. Edwin S. Broussard, of Louisiana, will take place on Saturday, has chosen for her matron of honor her sister, Mrs. Walter E. Banse, of Baltimore.

Miss Mary Louise Broussard will be maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Helen Medinger and Mrs. J. R. Schaefer, both of Baltimore. Little Virginia Garland Powell, a cousin of the bride, will be flower girl, and the ring bearer will be young Frank Macavoy.

Mr. Broussard will have his brother, Mr. Edwin Broussard, for best man, and the ushers will be the Messrs. Joseph Macavoy, Walter P. Banse, Dorville Broussard and Jack Powell.

The ceremony will take place at the Sacred Heart Church at 11 o'clock and a small reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents in Brookeville, Md.

THE demonstration of the electrical organ—invention of Capt. Richard H. Ranger—over the air yesterday afternoon by Capt. Ranger and Charles M. Courboin, organist, was technically perfect. The listener heard the full range of the new instrument. Varied selections, covering a wide field of organ music, were played.

While the day may be in the not too distant future when electrically-produced music will replace our present symphony organizations—a day when two or three men, seated at consoles, will snap buttons or keys on and off, thus controlling electrical devices, which in turn will loose soft cadences or volumes of harmonious sound—yesterday's demonstration showed that the time is not yet.

With the greatest respect for Capt. Ranger's inventive genius, the instrument heard yesterday is not ready to replace the pipe organ or the symphony orchestra. It produces harsh tones, lacking the mellowness of the pipe organ, nor is it capable of the rendition of pure-blended tones as produced by a symphony orchestra.

It is not difficult to recall that just ten years ago the radio was far from being a perfect instrument for the mechanical reproduction of music, so realize this "electrical organ," together with the Theremin and other devices of their kind, may well be the forerunners of a widening of the musical horizon.

WHEN Herluf Provensen, NBC announcer, finishes his task of announcing President Hoover for the third time this week on Wednesday, he will have performed that duty on 36 occasions.

A. E. Johnson, chief engineer, is with Provensen on this trip and in the future the WRC pair will go on every journey with the President when broadcasts are planned.

Ceremonies in connection with the unveiling of a bust of John Tyler, tenth president of the United States, and a native son of Virginia, will be broadcast from the State Capitol Building in Richmond tomorrow afternoon (WRC, 3:30 p. m.). Claude G. Bowers will deliver an address and Gov. Pollard will preside.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mayor James J. Walker and several prominent business executives will address radio audiences when a session of the Advertising Federation of America is broadcast today (WRC, WMAL, 12:30 p. m.).

THE adventures of "Cecil and Sally" will be resumed over WOL tonight at 6:15 o'clock.

The voices of several hundred school children, accompanied by the New York Fire Department Band, will be heard over WMAL this afternoon when the fourteenth annual Flag Day ceremonies of the Sons of the Revolution are held at City Hall Park.

The Poughkeepsie intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson will be broadcast tomorrow afternoon (WMAL, 3 p. m.) Four announcers, headed by Ted Husing, will give a stroke-by-stroke description of the race.

A new program, featuring Dennis King, star of the stage and screen, will have its premier tonight (WMAL, 6:15 p. m.) and will be heard each night, except Saturdays and Sundays. A 20-piece symphony orchestra, new to broadcasting, under the direction of Maximilian Pilzer, formerly of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, is another feature.

Count Felix Von Luckner, Germany's war-time naval hero, will be interviewed Wednesday night (WRC, 9:30 p. m.).

A PREDICTION that television in the home is likely to be a reality within a reasonably short time was made by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the NBC, last week.

First general application of the art probably will be through the presentation of close-ups of radio artists, and even after being developed to a point where receivers are simple and dependable, sight will be utilized to supplement rather than to compete with sound broadcasting, Mr. Aylesworth prophesied.

The NBC and affiliates, he explained, had refrained from offering to the public a regular television service and would keep the art in the research laboratories until it attained more substantial proportions, in the belief that too early a presentation would retard rather than further its development.

STATION WMAL is going to dedicate its new studios tonight with a special air party, beginning at 11 p. m. Harold A. LaFount, of the Federal Radio Commission, will speak briefly. Dance music by a special 25 piece orchestra will be featured. This program will be sent out over the CBS network.

Jan Interprets the Mode

Ombre georgette in shades of warm beige and brown in a graceful evening gown, with an unusual floating scarf of the same fabric. (Courtesy of Tollmann, Paris.)

New York, June 14.

I TOLD you a few days ago that simplicity could be carried to an extreme as far as formal evening attire was concerned. But when it comes to summer daytime attire there doesn't seem to be any such thing as too much simplicity. Dresses for morning wear are as innocent of any hint of fussings or furbelows as they can possibly be. Demureness, child-like naivete and simple girlishness best describe them. And this effect is enhanced by the use of handmade trimming. Yes, my dear, if you're the kind of person that likes to crochet lace this is the time to do it. Just a touch of hand-crochet lace on your yellow linen summer frock is enough to insure its smartness!

And if you like to embroider, go ahead and embroider the yoke of your white shantung dress with tiny flowerets of the eyelet variety. Or you can knit yourself collar and cuffs of bright yarn to be worn with your white tussor frock, for this is a girlish summer and examples of your own handiwork add the quaint, finishing touch.

However, if you can't indulge yourself in this pastime of embroidering or crochetting or knitting—and many of us can't, why then a judicious use of buttons and a brightly colored belt are sufficient trimming for your bright and white and light colored summer frocks. Square silver buttons, the kind that Jane Regny likes, are enough embellishment for any linen, or tussor or shantung or tub silk dress. They are used to button (oh, they're ever so much more effective when they actually button something together rather than being just scattered more or less pointlessly on the frock!). They can button or surplice closing or button tiny sleeves together or appear to be buttoning the pockets of your dress.

But sometimes you'll find that the addition of a red patent leather belt to your white dress is quite enough ornamentation in this season of summer simplicity.

Just as we are getting accustomed to solid colors for our evening wear, along comes another new and charming after-dark notion! This time it's the subtle and sophisticated combining of shades of one color in one's frock and accessories—'n' you can't imagine how new and lovely such an idea is. I have sketched you a stunning evening gown from Tollmann today, of dignified and gracious lines, that made use of this color gradation. This gown is of georgette, in shades of golden beige, with a warm, orange note, that range from pale cream to a soft copper—a coloring that shows the unusual decolletage, rounded in front and a deep V in back, and the tiered skirt to beautiful advantage! 'N' the georgette scarf, which drapes in so many graceful and individual ways about the shoulders, is in the same ombre tints.

If you are a petite blonde, think of what a gown in shades of pale turquoise and sea-blue would do for you—and what stately brunette could resist an orange and flame frock? 'N' whatever your coloring, what woman would not hail such a new and individual and easily copied evening idea to give variety to her smart evening costumes?

• • • •

Have you enough hats, Anne? Have you, Mary? Have you, Betty? Neither have I! 'N' what's more, when you come right down to it, I don't believe any woman ever has—especially with her frilly summer frocks. And hats, good, becoming ones, that is, are sorta expensive, and to own all of them we want would be decidedly expensive! So here's what I did about it! I found a hat in Paris, a delightful, summery one that shaded my face demurely, and it was not too difficult to copy. And when I had made one in black and one in white, I discovered that I could make the brims and crown separately and have a black and white hat at the same time, for the same price. And, to make a long story short, it was such a clever idea that I sat right down and wrote a leaflet about it, which you may have by sending your stamped, self-addressed envelope right off to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. My directions are illustrated, too, and you'll just adore the hats I tell you how to make!

And of course you want to read the weekly Dare fashion letter in the big Sunday Post every Sunday.

Au revoir!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF June 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:10 a. m. to 2 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 7:45 p. m., and from 9:10 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger hours are from 9:05 p. m. to 11 p. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

June 15 will be, astrologically, a restless but important day, probably marking a period of major or minor crises in business and domestic affairs. Speculation should be avoided, and the greatest care should be exercised in investments. Every investor should be on guard against rapid depreciation and loss.

Pessimism and cynicism will characterize, in adulthood, the child born on June 15. It will have moods in which nothing will appear bright or cheerful. Everything of an odd out-of-the-way nature will fascinate it. A thirst for knowledge will make it inquisitive and studious. Its nature will be kind and loving.

You are, if born on June 15, intensely human, and supremely honest. That you have genius few should deny, but your really distinguishing feature is common sense. No event—be it unpropitious or favorable—makes any change in your character. You are extraordinarily attractive and loyal. "Double crossing" is unknown to you. Your conversation is so engaging as to almost defy praise, and you are the acknowledged star of any social gathering. You are shrewd, witty and cynical—and yet simple. Above all, you have seen much of life, from many standpoints, and looked on them all at once with sympathy and toleration. You are, too, understanding.

You have the happy faculty of putting yourself in touch with, rather than forcing your personality on, your friend. You live for yourself and your friends, and do not seek notoriety or try to form a set. This indicates an ability to resist pressure. Bores do not worry you or disturb your equanimity. Some sort of secret fund of amusement seems to well out of your own personality and sweeten every hour with fun for yourself. Your horoscope indicates, even though riches be denied you, great contentment of spirit, and in your home you will find supreme happiness, because you yourself are its very embodiment.

Successful people born June 15:
William B. Ogden, first Mayor of Chicago, Ill.
Charles H. Smith ("Bill Arp"), humorist.
Sol Smith Russell, actor.

Culbertson on Contract

Five Do's and Don'ts of the Culbertson Standard System

IF you wish to win a National Championship with a partner whom you have not seen before and who has never played the Culbertson Standard System, try the Five-Rule-System, which I announced to my newly-found partner, W. J. Carpenter from Salem, Ohio, a few minutes before we optimistically decided to compete for the Championship against the field of 64 veteran players. It worked.

The National Contract Bridge Team of Four Championship for the year 1930-1931 was played in Cleveland under the auspices of The American Bridge League. Billy Barrett, an 18-year-old wizard from Augusta, Ga., and Johnny Rau from New York completed our collegiate Team of Four. All were good enough players to know that our case was almost hopeless. I believe in keeping up the fight, however, so I gave my partner these rules:

1.—Do not support my first trump bids of one or two unless you hold four small trumps or at least three trumps headed by the Queen.

2.—Always start your bidding with any biddable suit (be it even a four-card minor) rather than with notrump and, except with extraordinary hands, start not higher than one in a suit and then let nature take its course. (Approach Method.)

3.—Do not pass my Opening suit bid of one except when you hold a very weak hand—less than one honor-trick—or when the opponent on the left obligingly keeps the bidding open. If you have not enough trumps to raise my bid suit, no other suit worth while mentioning, then bid one notrump with any hand that contains from 1½ to 2 honor-tricks—for instance an Ace and a Q J, or two Kings guarded and a Queen guarded. "The Backbone of The Culbertson System" I expounded, "is the negative one notrump response to give your partner another opportunity to bid, without which the great advantage of the Approach Method explained in the Rule 1 is nullified."

4.—Bid the full value of yopr hand when raising partner's bid or responding with notrump.

5.—Always keep the bidding open, until a game is contracted for, after either partner makes a Forcing Signal. The word "forcing" means one of two things only: you bid or die. There are two kinds of Forcing Signals which automatically announce game at some bid yet to be determined:
(a) A Jump Takeout in a new suit by partner of Opening bidder or by Opening bidder himself.
(b) Any Opening two-bid in a suit (when there is no part-score towards game). If partner holds an absolutely trickless hand his response is the "Bust" two notrump.

Here Jimmy, who by this time had become quite groggy, gasped and dolefully shook his head.

There was one invisible Rule X, more important than all the other rules put together—bridge psychology, which deals with imponderables and studies partners' and opponents' mental reactions to bidding and playing situations.

To my immense astonishment our team won. Frankness compels me to admit that the championship was won through brilliant bidding and play on the other half of our foursome, although my young partner did his bit nobly. For instance, he took anywhere from five to ten minutes to make a single bid or a pass. After the first few minutes the enemy would become visibly nervous and fretful; after five or six minutes they would glare at Jimmy while he heroically remained oblivious to anything around him; finally, after eight or ten minutes these veterans of bridge, who traveled from afar to this yearly event, did not care whether they won the championship or not.

Some one stated that our victory was the most remarkable in the history of bridge, but to me it was a decisive proof that our present conditions of championship scoring are far from being satisfactory.

My partner did not think so. As he spoke to me his voice was firm in the consciousness of a well-won victory:

"Although you made some mighty funny bids, your system is wonderful and your rules are miraculous. They worked even when applied at the wrong time. "But——" and here the new champion cautiously peered around to make sure that we were alone, "tell me, please, what's that negative no trump you were talking about before the match?"

I made a superhuman effort not to burst out into an eerie cackle and, gathering the broken fragments of the backbone of the Culberston system, meekly disappeared.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers Address him in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a 2-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

JUNE GARDEN NOTES.

THOUGH a small pool can be kept filled by carrying water in a pail or with a garden hose, it is far more convenient to connect it with a direct pipe line with the regular water supply for the house. This can easily be laid underground.

Dandelions and, indeed, all weeds, should never be allowed to form seeds, lest they spread rapidly. You must keep them mowed close at this season.

Bonemeal worked in around the peony and rose bushes when their buds begin to swell will make for bigger and better blossoms. Use about a handful to each plant. Better begin to make this a habit and feed twice this month.

A few drops of gasoline applied with an oilcan to the crowns of large plaintain or other weeds will often kill their roots. But be careful not to let it touch any desirable kinds of plants.

Shrubs that have finished flowering may be pruned now without injury to next spring's display. The new flower buds will be formed on the fresh wood this coming summer, since spring-flowering shrubs bloom on wood made the previous season.

Rhododendrons and laurel and other broad-leaved evergreens are benefited by a good mulch of dead oak leaves or rotting pine needles left in place the year round.

The frequent cutting of flowers does no harm to plants. In fact, it always has the effect of prolonging the blossoming season by delaying the normal development of seeds.

Delphiniums should be staked before they reach their full height. For all their apparent strength, the stalks are apt to be broken by the wind if they are left unsupported.

A dust mulch will benefit your vegetable patch in warm, dry weather. Make this protection 2 inches deep. This can easily be done with the garden hoe. It both conserves moisture and keeps down weeds.

Your Name
WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Cain" (also spelled "Caine") may be traced back to several sources. In the great majority of cases it is of Celtic origin, and may be translated "the warrior" or "the son of the warrior." In some cases it is a shortened form of various Celtic names beginning with "cath," which means "battle." A second source of "Cain" is the Gaelic and Welsh adjective "cain," meaning "fair" and "bright." In some cases "Cain" may be traced back to the French "quede," meaning "the oak," and indicates an original place of residence near such a tree. It has been found that some families named "Cain" have received the name because of a former residence in Caen, France. This French place-name is of Celtic origin, and means "the field of battle." The Irish variations of "Cane" are extremely numerous. Some of the most frequently found are "Kane," "Keane," "O'Cahan," "O'Kain" and "O'Keane." Finally, "Cane" is also found as a purely English name, being derived from the Anglo-Saxon personal name "Cano," also spelled "Cana." There is some uncertainty concerning the meaning of "Cano," although most authorities believe it is ultimately of Latin origin, and means "gray." "Cain" and its many variations are found in early records throughout Great Britain, especially on the Isle of Man, where it is still very common. An English document of the year 1379 bears the name of Johannes Cayne. On the Isle of Man this name is recorded as "McKane" (1408), "Mac Cane" (1511), "Cain" (1586), "Cane" (1601), "Caine" (1609) and "Cayne" 1610.

The family name of "Vanderbilt" is of Dutch origin, being based on the Dutch "van," meaning "of;" "der," meaning "the," and "belt" meaning "a heap" and "a mound." This name implies that the person to whom it was first given lived near a knoll or small hill.

FRANCES M'DONALD

Cheerful Child!

DEAR Frances McDonald: Can you tell me what is wrong with me? I am 20 years old, have a good home, no family troubles, and good health, outside of nervousness. My boy friend is 21. His people like me and my family and vise versa. We are of the same religious belief. We are both so much in love and it is making a wreck out of me. I used to be a carefree, gay flapper. Now I'm sober, feel blue and act like I'm drugged half the time. I don't know what to do with myself or life. Starting at 17 I had two unfortunate love affairs and always felt blue when I was in love and blue when it ended.

Now I always heard that girls were happiest when they were being courted. Why this reaction on me? My boy friend wants to get married in about six months. He will make a wonderful husband—we like the same things and he is sort of domestic but fond of good time too. What I'm afraid of is this. I'm afraid we'll get married and after a year or two be sorry we didn't wait longer. On the other hand I just can't stay in this state of mind, and if marriage will change me, I'll get married right away. Is that my solution to happiness? At times I wish I were living long ago when girls were just expected to marry, settle down and have darling babies. Now its such a problem what to do. Sometimes I feel like going out and having a wild time, then I'd be happy. But I know that's not real happiness. I have a good job and just can't see myself eventually doing housework day after day. Yet I want to make the most out of life and don't want to be a selfish woman. What is the best way? Working in an office, having nice clothes, and a wonderful time—or struggling to pay the rent, caring for babies and having a real man? Honest, it's nearly driving me crazy to decide. Maybe I'm one of those poor unfortunates that will always be unhappy no matter what they get and wish for something else.

UNHAPPY.

What a cheerful little playmate you turned out to be! Do you hold forth after this manner to the poor boy friend? If so his sleep must surely be troubled and fitful! Now I will tell you what you need. About one pint of orange juice daily, plus a 2-mile walk and eight hours' sleep. There is but one real career for woman. All others are mere substitutes for that. But to it she must bring a healthy mind and a well-nourished body. The girl who is full of fears will be unhappy whether married or single because she is bilious. While the one who is really well will find happiness whether she gets her man or just misses him by a stretch.

Life is made up of a number of things, including men and marriage. Marriage brings happiness to most normal, well-balanced people—especially women, for it offers those things the soul craves—companionship, appreciation, affection. It brings misery to thousands, however. To the thousands who look upon it as a miraculous something that banishes all care. Marriage, like a game of bridge, is just what your own intelligence and skill make it. Some folks are great at bridge, and some others! But we do not blame bridge for what Mrs. Jones can do to a perfectly good game, do we? So, my dear, with marriage. The woman who looks upon wifehood as a round of dish washing is hardly the type to provide a very inspirational background for any undertaking. To such a one a good steady job punching a time clock might be the answer. And nature usually sees to it that that is her destiny. But to the healthy, wholesome woman marriage is the natural mode of existence.

Try the orange juice and the walk. And after the liver begins to do its bit you will see things in a rosier light. Postpone your marriage until you do. For your present viewpoint would rob any marriage of its glory, make any husband feel like a worm. Between the folks who expect marriage to be a symphony of flawlessness, and those who see it as an orgy of work, worry and misery without end, it is not strange that divorces increase in number every year. Some day we will see marriage as it is—merely a mode of living, thrilling or dull depending upon whether we are thrilling or dull—satisfying or otherwise depending upon the intelligence we display in making our choice of a companion in the enterprise? So cheer up! And be careful whose see you trump!

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Roy Sermabeg

BLACKGUARD

IN THE GREAT HOUSES OF FEUDAL DAYS THERE WERE ALWAYS DEPENDENTS WHO DID MENIAL WORK. IN DERISION, PEOPLE GAVE THESE MENIALS THE NAME BLACKGUARD BECAUSE THEY WERE ALWAYS DIRTY. WE HAVE SINCE APPLIED THE NAME TO SCOUNDRELS.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

PREVENTION OF LEG GANGRENE.

A CONSIDERABLE number of people are in danger of gangrene of the feet because of the diseased condition of the arteries of the lower legs. This is true of all diabetics. But they have no monopoly. A great many people of the Jewish race are prone to develop what is commonly called Buerger's disease. Without having diabetes they become liable to gangrene of the feet.

Nor have the Jews a monopoly of Buerger's disease. A closely related disorder is intermittent claudication. People who are subject to that are prone to have painful spasms in the calf muscles. A man with this malady will start out for a walk. Perhaps he pushes a little too fast. He is stopped by leg cramps.

As though the number was too restricted it has been suggested that the people who are very prone to leg cramps at night are headed in the same direction, though rarely do any of them go far enough to land in the group of men with endangered feet. Behind the condition lies a certain amount of disease of the large arteries of the leg.

Dr. Livingstone has some advice for all the members of this large group. They must keep their feet very clean. The standard of foot cleanliness which suffices for the general run of people is far too low for these people. They must wear loose, comfortable shoes. Abrasions due to shoe rub, nail cutting, corn trimming, and such ordinarily simple home surgery are particularly dangerous. The skin of the feet must be kept soft by rubbing them daily with cocoa butter.

A simple procedure that helps to maintain circulation in the legs is any exercise which alternately elevates the feet above the level of the prostrate body, and then lowers them. Contrast foot baths are of service. The feet are submerged for 1 minute in cold water at 55 degrees Fahrenheit, and then in warm water at 105 degrees. This is done several times a day. Exposing the feet to radiant heat and using diathermy on them, Dr. Livingstone thinks should prove of service.

CURING STUTTERING CHILD.

Mrs. T. L. J. writes: My little son, aged 3, has recently started stuttering. Could you discuss stuttering? Can it be caused by illness, or a fall? What is the treatment? Can you refer me to any helpful publications?

REPLY.

Stuttering results from nervousness. Thinking is done on one schedule, and the making of words on another. Cure consists in making both systems run on the same schedule. Train the boy in poise. Have him think and act placidly and speak slowly and calmly, and the trouble ends. With older children more set in their ways, cure is more difficult. Blanton's book should help you; there are other good ones.

TAKING EGG YOLKS.

Reader writes:

1. Is egg yolk good to take in water or in milk?
2. Is before or after meals better?
3. Is it harmful for a nervous person to take?

REPLY.

1. They are good either way. Egg yolk is rich in protein, fats, minerals and vitamins.
2. All right to take either before or with meals.
3. No.

Wolf Bounty $50.

Portland, Ore., June 14 (U.P.).—Apparently the howl of the timber wolf still is heard in Oregon forests. Since October the hides of a dozen wolves have been received by the State Game Commission for bounty payments. Hunters make about $50 on each kill, which includes a bounty of $25 from the State, $5 to $10 each from the county where the kill is made, and sale of the hides from $10 to $25 each to fur buyers.

YEARS OF GRACE - - - By Margaret Ayer Barnes

SYNOPSIS.

Just a month before the arrival of Jack and Albert, Cicily gives birth to twins. Jane finds herself a grandmother and likes it. A week later, Belle has a daughter. Jack and Albert come home to rejoin their brides. Flora Furness, Jane's school friend, sells the old family house and her last shop and goes to live in Paris. Jane will miss her, but the children and grandchildren fill her life. Jenny, her second daughter, is ready to enter college, and her son, young Steve, is fast growing into an attractive boy. Stephen says the house is Bedlam, but that is exactly what Jane likes.

CICILY, JENNY AND STEVE.

CHAPTER IV.

JANE sat on the brick parapet of her little terrace, wondering if the soft October air was too cool for her mother. It was a lovely autumn afternoon. An Indian summer haze hung over the tanned stretch of the Skokie Valley.

Isabel and Robin had motored Mrs. Ward out for Sunday luncheon at Lakewood, and the sun was so warm and the terrace so sheltered and the last breath of summer so precious that Jane had suggested that they take their after-luncheon coffee in the open air.

"Cold Mamma?" asked Jane. "That shawl's not very thick."

"Certainly not," said Mrs. Ward tartly. "I'm never cold."

Jane's eyes met Isabel's. They were always incredibly touched by their mother's perpetual, proud refusal to admit the infirmities of age. Infirmities that had seemed to creep insidiously upon her since her husband's death, eight months before. That death had vividly emphasized for Jane and Isabel the menace of the years.

Couldn't Realize He Was Gone.

Nevertheless, it was still impossible for Jane to realize that her father was dead. That he would never again make one of the little group that was gathered that sunny afternoon on her terrace. Never again meet her eyes with his indulgent twinkle, half-veiled in cigar smoke, as Isabel and her mother rattled off their brittle, shameless, incisive comment on life. Never again help solve a family problem, like the one now under discussion. Isabel was discussing it, very incisively.

"I hate," she said, "to have him give up his engineering."

"He wants to give it up," said Stephen eagerly.

"Not really," said Isabel; "he just thinks he ought to. I wish he could go to Tech this winter. Cicily could take a little flat in Boston."

"My dear," said Robin seriously, "Jack ought to support his wife."

"He's only twenty-three," sighed Isabel.

"He oughtn't to have a wife," put in Mrs. Ward, again rather tartly, "at his age."

"But he has," said Robin, "and he ought to support her."

Ought to Have His Chance.

"He's planned on engineering since he was a little boy," said Isabel plaintively. "You know, Jane, I think it's really up to Cicily. If she told him she'd like to live in Boston——"

"I know," said Jane, "but Cicily wouldn't like to live in Boston. She'd like to buy that four-acre lot and build a little French farmhouse and live here in Lakewood while Jack worked in Stephen's bank."

"He's awfully good in the bank," said Stephen.

Isabel rose impatiently from her chair and walked across the terrace. She stared a moment in silence at the tanned stretch of meadow.

"He's good at anything," she said presently. Jane caught the sob that was trembling in her voice. "But he ought to have his chance."

"I think myself," said Jane seriously, "that Cicily's making a mistake. But you know how it is, Isabel. She likes Lakewood. She's made all her plans. She doesn't want to go into exile."

"Boston isn't exile!" said Isabel, turning back to her chair.

"Thank you, Isabel!" threw in Stephen parenthetically.

"But Cicily thinks it is," said Jane. "She's never liked the Bostonians she met at Gull Rocks——"

Never Will Really Like Banking.

"I know how she feels," said Robin generously. "No woman wants a husband who's still in school. Besides, Isabel, we can't support them. I mean—we couldn't give Cicily the things she's accustomed to have. Jack made his decision when he married. He has a wife and two children. He can't settle back on his father-in-law for a meal ticket. Stephen's very generous to offer to build them that house and to give him such a good job in the bank."

"I'm glad to have him there," said Stephen warmly. "He's a bright kid."

"Just the same," said Isabel, "Jack's been building bridges since the age of ten. I can see him now with his first set of Meccano! He'll be awfully bored with banking! He'll never really like it."

"Isabel," said Mrs. Ward reprovingly, "you shouldn't talk like that about banking." Mrs. Ward had a solid Victorian respect for the source of her younger son-in-law's income.

"He'll like Cicily," said Robin, "and the twins and the little French farmhouse. He'll like the fun of starting out in life, on his own. He'll like himself if he's holding down an honest job."

Jane's Friends Were So "Queer."

"Of course, I can understand," said Isabel, "that Jane would like to have Cicily near her, now Steve's at Milton and Jenny's in Bryn Mawr. I hate to give up Belle. But if it's for Albert's best good——"

"How's Jenny getting on?" inquired Robin abruptly. He had always admired his plain little niece.

"She loves it," smiled Jane. And Jenny really did. Her unexpected enthusiasm for the cloisters had made Jane very happy. "She's rooming in Pembroke with Barbara Belmont—you know, the daughter of Stephen's friend."

"Such nice girls go to college nowadays," mused Isabel. "Your friends were so queer, Jane."

"They certainly were," put in Mrs. Ward with a sigh.

A little flame of adolescent resentment flashed up in Jane's heart.

"I don't know what was queer about them," she said indignantly, "unless it was queer of them to be so very able. Agnes is one of the most successful dramatists on Broadway. Her new crime play's a wow. And Marion Park has just been appointed Dean of Radcliffe."

Cicily Shows Plans for House.

As she spoke, the door to the living room opened and Cicily came out on the terrace. She was wearing a little green sport suit and carrying a roll of blueprints in her hand. She shook her dandelion head and smiled charmingly at the assembled family.

"Oh, here you are!" she said pleasantly. "Isn't it too cold for Granny? I want to show Uncle Robin the last plans for the house." Unrolling a blueprint she dropped down on her knees by his chair. Cicily still looked about 14 years old, reflected Jane, tenderly. "We want to get it started before the ground freezes——" she began. Looking up, she met her mother-in-law's inimical eye. Something a little hard and indomitable glittered in Cicily's own. She did not look 14 years old any longer. "Oh, don't tell me you've been arguing about it all over again!" she cried mutinously.

"My dear," said Jane, "it's not a thing to be lightly decided."

"Who's deciding it lightly?" cried Cicily hotly. "Mumsy, you make me tired."

"Don't talk like that, Cicily!" put in Mrs. Ward, and was again ignored.

Sick of Family Discussion.

"Aunt Isabel makes me tired!" continued Cicily. "I get so sick of all this family discussion! You act exactly as if I didn't know what was good for Jack, myself! I'm his wife! I ought to know him by this time!"

"Cicily!" said Stephen warningly.

"Well, I do know him, Dad!" flashed Cicily, "and I'm acting for his best good! Where would engineering get him? Three years at Tech and then building bridges and tunnels and railroad embankments at some jumping-off place all the rest of his life! Me, boarding in construction camps with Molly and the twins! Not even with Molly! She wouldn't go! What do we live for, anyway? He's much better off in your bank, leading a civilized life in a city where every one knows him!"

"Belle didn't talk like that," said Isabel reprovingly, "when Albert decided to go to Oxford."

Oxford Isn't Boston Tech.

"Well, I shouldn't think she would!" flashed Cicily again. "Oxford University isn't Boston Tech! Aunt Muriel's going to rent them a beautiful little house in that lovely country and Belle will meet a lot of distinguished people! I think Belle's life is going to be perfectly grand! If Albert really does go into the diplomatic service, Belle will have a career! She may end up in the Court of Saint James! I'd love to be an ambassador's lady——"

"Albert's not an ambassador yet, Cicily," twinkled Stephen! "he's just succeeded with some difficulty in becoming an Oxford undergraduate."

"It's a step in the right direction," said Cicily. "I wish to goodness Jack had his ambition."

"Jack has his own ambitions," said Stephen quiety.

"He certainly has!" retorted Cicily, "and he ought to be protected from them! You can't tell me anything about Jack, Dad! I think he's just as sweet as you do. He's worth ten of Albert! But just the same he'll never get anywhere if I don't push him. I'm pushing him now, just as hard as I can, into your bank! It's a splendid opening!" She paused a trifle breathlessly, then smiled very sweetly at her father. "You know you think so yourself, Dad, darling."

Jane watched Stephen try to steel himself against that smile, then reluctantly succumb to it.

"I wouldn't offer Jack anything, Isabel," he said slowly, "that I didn't think was going to turn into a pretty good thing."

"There!" cried Cicily in triumph, "and our house is going to be perfectly ducky——"

"Cicily——" began Isabel portentously. Then even Isabel obviously saw that argument was a waste of breath. "Let me see the blue-prints," she said helplessly.

Cicily surrendered them with a forgiving smile. She rose and looked interestedly over her mother-in-law's shoulder.

"Do you think the linen closet is large enough?" she asked tactfully.

"No, I don't," said Isabel judicially, "and it ought to be nearer the clothes chute."

"I'll have it changed," said Cicily generously. It was the generosity of the victor.

Jane rose slowly from her seat on the parapet. She could not do anything about Cicily. She could, however, go into the house and bring out Stephen's overcoat to wrap around her mother. As she walked across the terrace, she could see Isabel bending interestedly over the blue prints! Poor old Isabel! It was quite obvious that she had laid down her arms.

MANHATTAN Laundry

Net Bags Save You Money By Saving Your Clothes

VIRGINIA OFFICE: WILSON BOULEVARD AND MILITARY ROAD, ROSSLYN, VIRGINIA

MODERN LAUNDRY EXPERT EXPLAINS "NET BAG SYSTEM"

Tells How Manhattan Saves You Money By Saving Your Clothes

Present-day laundry methods, which preserve clothes as well as clean them, are far superior to the old home method of rubbing and scrubbing, according to Mr. E. F. Wesely, chief of the Research Department of Manhattan Laundry. Mr. Wesely attributes a large part of the Manhattan Laundry's success to their Net Bag System of washing.

Manhattan Laundry adopted the Net Bag for washing clothes six years ago. Clothes, they agreed, could be washed just as clean in net bags and would wear longer if rubbing and scrubbing were eliminated.

Manhattan's famous Net Bag System of washing, as described by Mr. Wesely, follows: First, the clothes are assorted according to their color and material and placed in individual net bags which bear the customer's name and contain only that customer's articles. Safe in the nets and protected from all metal or other hard surfaces, the clothes go into the washers. Here they are subjected to the gentle cleansing action of swirling hot suds which penetrate each garment and loosen every particle of dirt. Only the purest of Palm Oil soaps and soft, filtered water are used, after first having been inspected and tested by the Research Department. Many rinsings of fresh, clear water follow, removing every trace of dirt from the clothes and leaving the fabrics refreshed and clean. They are then dried, starched where necessary and ironed by the most modern methods.

That clothes wear longer and look better when washed in Net Bags has been proven by test after test. For instance, two shirts, exactly the same, were washed fifty times each, one in a net bag, the other by hand. At the end of the test the net-bag washed shirt showed absolutely no signs of wear, while the hand-washed shirt had become a sad combination of rough edges, torn seams and broken buttons. Other tests on all sorts of wearing apparel are being carried on regularly and in every case show the Net Bag System to be far superior in preserving the original sheen of the cloth. At Manhattan the Nets Get the Wear and the Clothes Get the Wash.

Enthusiastic Customer Praises Net Bag System

In a recent letter to the Manhattan Laundry Mrs. E. R. D. writes:

". . . But the one actual fact that pleases me most is that the clothes do not show as much wear as they did when I had my laundry done at home. . . . It is indeed a pleasure to recommend you. . . ."

This letter is typical of the many received by Manhattan from satisfied customers throughout the District of Columbia and Virginia.

Such letters bear out Manhattan's claim that "Net Bag Laundering Saves You Money by Saving Your Clothes."

Three-Day Collection And Delivery Service

Quite another Manhattan feature which has found great favor with Washington housewives is their 3-Day Collection and Delivery Service. In this highly developed system your clothes are collected one day, laundered to your order the next and delivered to you promptly the afternoon of the third day. For instance, if your clothes are collected Monday morning they are delivered Wednesday afternoon; called for Tuesday, back home Thursday, and so on. No delay. No worry. You know when you'll get your clothes when Manhattan has them. And there is no additional charge for this extra service.

Services To Fit Every Need And Every Purpose

Manhattan offers the housewife a wide selection of economical services—from Complete Finished Family to individual piece work. There is a service to fit every need and purse, and every service receives Net Bag Care.

Damp Wash is the most inexpensive service of all. It costs only 5 cents a pound, and as small as an 80-cent bundle can be sent. Clothes are returned damp, ready for the line. THRIF-T is another inexpensive service. Flat pieces are all ironed, but the wearing apparel is returned damp. Only 8 cents a pound with a minimum bundle of $1.

In the Rough Dry all the flat pieces are ironed, wearing apparel comes back ready to be ironed at home. Minimum bundle, 75 cents, only 10 cents a pound. In Economy another popular service, everything is machine ironed, including flat work, and returned ready for use. Men's shirts, 10 cents each additional. Few other articles may need retouching. Minimum, $1.25, only 12 cents a pound.

All Ironed Ready to Use. This covers all classes of Family Finished Laundry Service. These Ready-to-Wear services are reasonably priced according to the degree of niceties required. Our telephone operators will be glad to give any information regarding them.

There are many other Manhattan services to serve the housewife's every need. Shirts and Collars, Table and Bed Linens, Blankets, Rugs, Curtains and Dry Cleaning and Dyeing. All are economical. And the Net Bags Save You Money By Saving Your Clothes.

COAL STRIKERS SEEK RECRUITS FOR CAUSE

Mediators Push Efforts as Number Out Is Placed at High Figure.

Pittsburgh, June 14 (A.P.).—While State mediators continued their attempts to effect a settlement, strikers picketed mines of the western Pennsylvania coal field and held open air meetings today in an effort to gain further recruits to their ranks. No serious disorders were reported.

Union estimates of the number of men already on strike in western Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio vary from 14,000 to 27,000. Mine operators have declined to give an estimate.

Prospects for an end of the two-week-old strike, which has been characterized by sporadic clashes between strikers and their sympathizers on one hand and State police, deputy sheriffs and mine guards on the other, appeared to many observers to lie to a substantial degree in a conference called for Thursday by Gov. Gifford Pinchot with officials of the United Mine Workers of America and representatives of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation, one of the largest operators in the district.

Rival Threatens Repudiation.

Spokesmen of the National Miners' Union, left wing rival of the United Mine Workers, and affiliate of the Trade Union Unity League, however, have announced their determination to repudiate any settlement entered into without their participation, and have claimed leadership of a large majority of the strikers.

William Z. Foster, secretary of the Trade Union Unity League, has been here aiding the national miners union in the strike.

Since 1927, the year of the last extensive strike in this area, mines of the Pittsburgh and northern West Virginia fields have been largely on a nonunion operating basis. Recently, however, the United Mine Workers of America have attempted to reorganize locals in the two fields and have had a measure of success. Working in opposition to the United Mine Workers has been the National Miners Union, which has charged that the older union has "betrayed" the workers.

Higher Wages Asked.

Higher wages, better working conditions, union check weighmen and union recognition have been the demands of the strikers.

The operators, contending that economic conditions have placed them in a bad plight, say they are unable to pay, in most instances, the wages asked by the men.

One step toward peace in the present strike came Saturday when wage agreements were signed by two coal companies with the United Mine Workers, but whether others would follow remained a subject of considerable controversy.

Stop Signal Invented.

Beatrice, Nebr., June 14 (U.P.).—A school stop signal, arranged to operate automatically when school dismisses at recess, noon and in the afternoon has been invented by C. Nichols, of Glenover, near here. The signal operates by means of clockwork. It requires no adjustment from week to week during the school year. The signal is placed at the edge of the highway leading past the school.

67 Get "Colonel" Title Through "Alfalfa Bill"

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 14 (A.P.).—Gov. W. H. Murray's force of honorary colonels gradually is growing into a fair sized army.

The list now numbers 67. It is headed by Will Rogers, Oklahoma cowboy humorist, and includes three women, Miss Maude Thomas of Beaver, Mrs. D. A. McDougal, of Sapulpa and Miss Bess Stubblefield, of Vinita.

It has been the Governor's custom to name as colonels persons accompanying him on trips into other States.

We've never changed so many prices in our lives

The price of food has been going down so fast for the last year or more, that at times we've thought we'd have to put on an extra force just to change the price tags.

For we don't lose any time reducing the prices in our stores when the food we sell costs us less... When we pay less, you pay less. And we're usually the first to bring prices down where they belong... As you've probably noticed, if you read our advertising.

But we carry over a thousand food items. And we can't very well put all of their names in the paper, no matter how low in price they are. So you can see how sensible it would be for you to come in and see for yourself.

WEEK'S BONDS GAIN STEADILY IN PRICES

Upturn Studied by Traders for Future Indications; Cheap Money Given Credit.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Although there was nothing sensational about the action of the bond market last week, traders and bankers felt encouraged by the general, if gradual, advance in prices. The one exception to this optimism was the slump in German bonds.

The gains were so small and irregular, from day to day, as to escape notice by many observers. However, a comparison of the closing levels with those of a week previously reveals a broad, if moderate, advance. The closing average price for 30 representative issues composed of ten bonds each of industrials, railroads and public utilities was 94.6, the highest average since May 26.

An advancing bond market would be hailed in Wall street as a strong factor in favor of business recovery, but it remains to be seen whether the appreciation of last week is the beginning of such a movement.

Stimulation Is Foreseen.

However, it has been common knowledge for weeks that one of the principal objects of the present easy money policy of the Federal Reserve System is to stimulate the bond market. This is a strong factor but it is not the only one necessary for a broad advance. The future alone will reveal whether the long-awaited upturn has started.

At any rate the advance was confined pretty much to domestic corporate obligations. As a result of the political and economic uncertainties in Germany the national, provincial, municipal, public utility and industrial loans of that country suffered wide losses. These declines tended to depress other foreign obligations also. However, prices of corporate loans will have to rise and remain steady or strong for some period of time before any extensive program of bond flotations can be undertaken.

That such a time is still some distance ahead might be inferred from the $21,910,000 of new bonds floated last week, the smallest aggregate since the last week of April. The total for the preceding week was $73,110,000.

High Investment Values.

Equally significant with the reduced total was the fact that more than $9,000,000 of that aggregate consisted of State and municipal obligations. Another $12,894,000 was composed of public utility obligations, principally of short maturities and railroad equipment trust certificates.

The great bulk of these securities were of high investment rating. One of the distinctive features of the bond market in recent months has been the persistent demand for gilt-edge and high-grade obligations.

New evidence of this latter fact appears in the news that 93 communities will seek to sell bond issues this week which total $59,642,175. Three issues by the State of Louisiana, City of Montreal and the State of New Jersey aggregate $49,009,000 which indicates that the smaller communities generally are taking advantage of the present strong market for municipal obligations.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Large highway bond flotations by the States of Louisiana and New Jersey will account for the bulk of the $59,642,175 of the new bonds scheduled for award by 93 States and municipalities this week, the Bond Buyer reports. The total last week was $33,367,389 and the weekly average for the year to date $40,002,488. The Louisiana financing scheduled for Monday consists of $15,000,000 State highway bonds, on which bidders have been asked to name the interest rate at not exceeding 5 per cent. The State of New Jersey has called for bids on Thursday for $20,000,000 State highway bonds and $3,000,000 State institution obligations.

Trading in silver futures will be inaugurated by the National Metal Exchange in New York Monday. A short program of speaking will precede the opening of trading, and after the first transactions a luncheon will be served. The contract unit will be 25,000 ounces, 2 per cent, more or less, 99.9 fineness. Only bar silver bearing an approved brand or marking will be deliverable and delivery must be made in whole large bars, of usual commercial size.

Offering is scheduled tomorrow of $3,540,000 City of Milwaukee, Wis., 4¼ per cent bonds, due July 1, 1932 to 1951, inclusive, and priced to yield from 2 to 3.60 per cent. The bonds are issued for viaduct, school and park purposes.

Interest due on the 6 per cent debentures on Shubert Theater Corporation will not be paid Monday, it was announced tonight at the offices of the company. A plan for meeting the situation is being prepared by the company and is expected to be announced within a few days. The debentures are due June 15, 1942, and are outstanding in the amount of $16,450,000.

A contract has been signed by Fox Film Corporation for the showing of all its pictures for a ten-year period, beginning in August, in the 136 theaters of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, Ltd. The contract provides for the annual showing of 48 feature pictures and 104 newsreels.

WEEK'S BUSINESS TREND UNCHANGED

Summer Dullness Persists, With Slight Improvement in Retail Trade.

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—Business enters the last half of June with little change noticeable in recent rates of activity. Retail trade, stimulated by store sales and demand for vacation necessaries and extras, looks somewhat better, but the wholesale branch has not fared so well.

Retailers are apparently keeping stocks at low levels, endeavoring to maintain a nice balance with consumptive demand.

The fact that the decline into midsummer dullness by most industrial lines has been gradual, unmarked by violent contractions, is regarded as favorable.

Of course, the position even at the spring peak was relatively poor and the appearance of a quite normal reaction has been discouraging to producers and sellers of goods. Hopes for much of an improvement before late summer or early autumn are believed unwarranted in many quarters.

Automobile production is sliding off and carrying steel with it. Iron Age said the chief reason for the slump to 40 per cent in the operating ratio of the steel mills was the decline in motor car demand, which will influence ingot output for the next two months. The May drop in total automobile production was caused by the recession at the Ford plants. Chevrolet has cut its schedules 20 per cent.

The decline in the United States Steel Corporation's backlog was entirely seasonal. The loss, in fact, was less than the average tip for the past seven years. With buyers still cautious, largely because of continued price uncertainties, the industry as a whole is facing a dull two months unless the stronger stock market, by maintaining or extending its gains, brings an unexpected revival in retail sales of automobiles, necessitating a step-up in production.

Final action on the petition of the railroads for higher freight rates is hardly anticipated before several months have passed, as the prospective hearings will take some time, and there is apt to be considerable opposition to the proposal, the roads themselves are losing no time in getting their case before the Federal commission.

Copper stocks have mounted to record high levels, despite the curtailment agreement among American and European producers last November. Some metal was sold last week at 8 cents, but the large interests held out for a better price. Price changes in other commodities tended to offset each other, so that the indices were steadier.

To what extent general confidence has been strengthened by the strong-though many observers note a relief er stock market is problematical, although rampant pessimism, which in itself is regarded as constructive. Maintenance of a firm and dull market would be helpful.

NATS ROUT BROWNS, 9-3, AS MACKS BOW TO TRIBE

13-Hit Attack Gives Nats 9th Straight and Reduces Macks' Lead to 3 Games

Hadley Stops Browns After Burke Falters With 1-Run Lead.

Nats Aided by Errors in Late Scoring as 11,000 See Fray.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

YESTERDAY was a great one for Washington baseball enthusiasts, although the 11,000 who saw the Nationals beat the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 3, for their ninth straight and their thirteenth victory in their sixteen starts at home, did not hear the best part of the story before leaving Griffith Stadium. It concerns Cleveland's victory over the leading Mackmen, which let the Nationals pull up within three games of first place in the race. The delay in getting the returns on this fracas was due to rain holding up play in the Forest City.

Although the Nationals won yesterday with six runs to spare, there were many uneasy moments for the cash customers. Washington hopped on George Blaeholder for three runs in the first two frames and then the Brownies started whittling this down.

Burke Pounded Out In Sixth.

Bobby Burke pitched hitless ball for the first three rounds, but then granted one run in the fourth, with a double play helping him out immeasurably, another in the fifth, during which the allens had the tying run on third with none out, while the first two up in the sixth singled in order. Here Irving Hadley rushed to the rescue and he had to be lucky as well as good to pull out of this hole.

After that, the Nats scored six more runs, four off Rolland Styles, Blaeholder's relief, while in view of this big lead, Hadley had few more troubles, although the enemy showed signs of an uprising in the ninth, which made it necessary for Fred Marberry to start working the kinks out of his salary wing.

Thirteen hits fell to the lot of the residents, Manush getting three and Myer, Sam Rice, Bluege and Spencer two each, and every one of these blows was inserted in scoring frames. Off the ten safeties credited to the Browns, of which Melillo and McNeely garnered two each, only six were used in run-making.

Burke's Single Scores Two Runs.

Sam Rice's single with one dead in the first was turned into the run coined in that round when followed by Manush's double and Cronin's long fly, while an opening walk to Kuhel, Bluege's single, Spencer's suicide and Burke's base-cleaning one-shot netted the two registered in the second. Then the Nats stopped temporarily and the Browns got busy.

Burns opened the fourth with a single, Goslin was hit, and Schulte hit into a most helpful double-play, that is, helpful from a Washington standpoint. Kress singled the run home and it took a good catch by West to end this round.

McNeely's single started the fifth and Ferrell immediately doubled him to third. Blaeholder's fly was deep enough to let McNeely score and Ferrell went to third with the tying run and only one out. Levey popped to Spencer and Burke pulled out of this hole by forcing Burns to roll to Myer.

When Goslin and Schulte, first two up in the sixth, came through with singles, Burke drew his walking papers and Hadley appeared upon the scene. He fanned Kress and then turned Melillo's tap to him into a double-play with the help of Cronin and Kuhel.

Blaeholder's Error Helpful To Nats.

In the home half, Blaeholder missed Melillo's throw while covering first on Cronin's roller after Manush had beat out a bunt and this miscue gave the Nats a chance to make two runs. West popped to Levey and Kuhel hit into a force-play, Bluege and Spencer then singling the runs home.

Just to keep in the habit, the Nats added three more to their total in the seventh with two errors helping considerably, and another in the eighth, while the Browns never threatened seriously until the ninth. Melillo opened with a safety, McNeely popped to Bluege, and Myer was charged with an error when he failed to touch second on an attempted force-play. Pinch-Hitter Waddey then filled the bases by singling, but the Browns could get but one home. He registered after West's catch of Levey's fly and Burns ended the game by fouling to Sam Rice.

CRONIN GOES HITLESS IN 4 TRIES

Marines Honor Levey Today; Brown to Face St. Louis.

IT will be "Jim Levey Day" at Griffith Stadium this afternoon when the Nationals and Browns meet in their second game of the current set. Levey, St. Louis shortstop, starred with the Devil Dogs at baseball, basket ball and football while a sergeant at the Quantico post and his former mates in the service plan to pay him homage today.

Headed by Gen. Smedley Butler, they will turn out about 400 strong, and accompanied by their 72-piece band, will parade to the park and give a sample of their famed cheering during play. The officers of the post have bought Jim a leather ensemble, which they will present to him as he comes to bat to open the game.

Lloyd Brown, Nats southpaw, will do the Washington flinging, while Manager Bill Killefer is expected to turn over his mound assignment to Sam Gray. Brown was pummeled by the Indians his last start but promises better things today. Gray, former Mack star, beat the Nats when he faced them in St. Louis last month, breaking their winning streak at six in a row.

Little Chance of Trade by Nats.

Baseball's closed season for trading ends at midnight and President Clark Griffith declares that he does not expect to make any last-minute deals involving any of his Nationals, but admits that there still is a remote possibility.

Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Red Sox, is in town and was in conference with the Washington Club

Braves Defeat Cubs, 3-1, on Squeeze Play

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Fred Frankhouse and Harold Haid struck out nine Cubs this afternoon, and limited them to six hits, Boston taking the opening game of the series, 3 to 1. The Braves made but five hits off Root and Baecht, but sloppy Cub fielding in one inning and a perfect squeeze play gave the Braves victory.

Nineteen men fanned, Root and Frankhouse getting eight apiece, and Baecht and Haid accounting for the others. Hack Wilson hit his fifth home run of the year in the eighth inning.

A triple by Berger and a squeeze play with Neun on the hitting end gave Boston one in the fourth. They added two in the fifth on a two-bagger by Spohrer, a wild throw past third by Root on Maguire's sacrifice, and Dreesen's single. Frankhouse pitched sensationally, but asked to be taken out in the eighth with two out, when he became ill.

Robins Stop Bucs, 6-3, On Groskloss' Error

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 14 (A.P.). An error by Howard Groskloss, young Pittsburgh shortstop, booted a ball game from under Larry French today and enabled the Brooklyn Robins to win a one game series here by the score of 6-3.

Two were out in the last half of the eighth, runners were on first and second and the score was tied, when Lombardi hit an easy grounder to Groskloss. The ball dribbled between his legs without even touching his glove. After that, the Robins scored two more runs.

GOLF CROWN TO MRS. LAKE

Beats Mrs. Raymond in Dixie Women's Title Play.

VIRGINIA BEACH, June 14 (A.P.).—Mrs. Marion Turpee Lake, hter of a New Orleans professional, today answered her last call to the tea in a Southern Woman's Golf Association championship by defeating Mrs. Ruth Aaymond, of New Orleans, 4 and 3 for the 1931 crown.

For 33 holes these rivals battled over the Princess Anne Country Club course this morning and afternoon before Mrs. Lake could accomplish her triumph. They were all ssquare as they went to lunch after 18 holes, but Mrs. Lake drew steadily ahead during the afternoon round.

Mrs. Lake Averages 1927 Loss.

The victory today enabled MrMs. Lake to even matters with Mrs. Raymond, who defeated her at Laurel, Mass., in 1927, to win the Dixie title that year. Three up through the thirty-third hole, Mrs. Lake last four straight and the match in 1927. Both golfers today found their main trouble with their putters. Each three putted several greens although Mrs. Raymond was far ahead of the new champion in this error. Mrs. Lake was short in most cases with her approach putts. Mrs. Raymond topped three tee shots and as many in the fairway.

It appeared an easy Lake victory at the start as Mrs. Raymond lost three holes in a row. She came back, however, with a birdie and par to win the sixth and seventh and they rounded the turn with MMrs. Lake 1 up. Here Mrs. Raymond got in her best shots, to win the twelfth and go 2 up. It was the only time during the match when she held the advantage.

Mrs. Raymond eliminated Ellen Durrell, Roanoke, 7 and 5; Mrs. Thomas Pribby, Richmond, 2 and 1; Mrs. Jean Jones, Richmond ,(3 and 2; Mrs. Leon Solomon, Memphis, 2 up.

Today Mrs. David Gaut, of Memphis, four-time champion, captured the championship flight consolation by defeating Mrs. Priddy, 8 and 7. Virginia Holzderber, Baltimore, beat Miss Margaret Maddox, Atlanta, 3 and 2, in first-flight finals. First flight consolation fent to Ellen Durrell, Roanoke, 1 up over Mrs. Jerome Solomon, Baltimore.

HUTTICK AND DENNING TO BATTLE

Heavies Fight Tonight in Feature at Fort Washington.

WHAT it takes to steam up a New York fight audience will be fed the fans at Fort Washington tonight, barring inclement weather, when Arthur Huttick, former national amateur light-heavyweight champion, engages Jack Denning, thrice holder of the All-Navy heavyweight crown.

Huttick, for whom a fine career has been forecast by New York critics, and who knocked Billy Schwartz kicking in 40 seconds not long ago in Madison Square Garden, is the live wire above mentioned. He is slated to go ten rounds—or less, if he lives up to advance notices. Denning, despite the record he holds in Navy competition, will cause a distinct sensation if he beats the Brooklyn boy.

The show, opening at 8 o'clock, is the second of the outdoor season sponsored by the Fort Washington Athletic Association. Net receipts go to a fund to equip the post's athletic teams.

In the semifinal of eight rounds, Bobby Goldsby, welterweight champion of the Third Corps Area, will meet Harry Green, of Fort Washington. This bout is expected to furnish as much fireworks as the headliner. Green is ambitious and seeks to be the first to defeat the champion following the Third Corps Area tournament two months ago. Goldsby would have met the Fort Washington welterweight at that time but for the fact that Green sustained an injury in training.

Roddy Davis, Eastern High School lightweight, will appear in the main preliminary of six rounds against Saldier Clark, of the fort. Davis is said to be a comer in local professional ranks, while Clark already has demonstrated that he can step along in slugging company.

Another six-rounder brings together Doug Swetman and Billy Reed, former local amateur bantamweights, and in the opener Jack Quigley, Washington lightweight, will trade wallops with Joe Piscatelli, of Fort Myer.

CELTICS WIN, 2-0, FROM HISERS

Lefty McIntire, in Form, Wins Duel at Alexandria.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 14.—Charley Corbett's St. Mary's Celtics daubed the kalsomine brush over Hiser's All Stars, of Hyattsville, Md., here this afternoon in Baggett's Park. The score was 2 to 0.

"Lefty" McIntire, who returned recently from Hagerstown in the Blue Ridge League, let the invaders down with five widely scattered hits and fanned six batters on strikes. McIntire's appearance today was his first of the year with the Celtics, for whom he twirled in sensational fashion last year.

Joe Hamilton and "Rip" Hicks drove over the two winning markers, the latter singling to count Pat Murphy, who had singled previously and moved up on a sacrifice, in the second while Hamilton's one base blow scored "Doc" Dreifus, who had walked and advanced on Hicks' sacrifice.

Julie Radice, former University of Maryland star, stood out for the Maryland nine. Radice drove out two of the aliens' five hits and handled eight chances in faultless manner.

Recruiting and Subsidizing On Wane, Says 'Bulletin 26'

New Carnegie Foundation Report Notes Improvements Since Publishing of "Bulletin 23;" Several Colleges "Cleared."

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, June 14 (A.P.).—The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching was discovered a "notable advance in the attack upon recruiting and subsidizing in American college athletics" since it exploded the bombshell of its famous "Bulletin 23" a year and a half ago.

"Much remains to be done," it says, and "the day may never come when our college sport will be completely freed from these abuses," which the foundation described in 1929 as the "deepest shadow that darkens American college and school athletics," but it believes now that "a number of influences for improvement are at work."

Coupling this with the conclusion that the "deflation of American football already has begun," through a decline in gate receipts and the ballyhoo, the foundation's latest findings were released for publication today in "Bulletin 26," written by Howard J. Savage, John T. McGovern and Harold W. Bentley.

The authors have consumed only 58 pages in noting the trends and effects since they stirred the college athletic world in 1929 with the 383-page "Bulletin 23," but they have extended their studies from 130 to 164 schools, colleges and universities.

"Bulletin 26" Is Tame.

Far less sensational than its predecessor, both in tone and text, "Bulletin 26" is devoted chiefly to an examination of changes within and without college walls, designed to better the relationships between sport and the educational process.

Its chief findings are (1) the assumption of greater responsibility for the proper conduct of athletics by university officers and trustees; (2) the notable attempts to eliminate abuses which have their roots in the prevalent commercialization of American college sport, despite evidence these abuses are practiced more actively, though less obviously, in some cases.

The foundation finds that the "efforts to reduce recruiting and subsidizing of college athletics * * * are not confined to any one section of the country or to any single group or kind of institution." The report goes on to say:

"They have occurred in New England, Pennsylvania and New York State. They have led, in parts of the Middle West, to a rather general belief that subsidizing and recruiting has diminished. The same opinion is expressed in one of the Rocky Mountain States. In the South opinion is divided. One university president believes recruiting and subsidizing to be the most serious problem in that region, while another holds it to be secondary to academic eligibility.

Subsidizing Shows Decline.

"On the other hand, in some

Tigers Beat Yanks, 4-2, As Sorrell Bests Gomez

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—A two-run rally in the tenth inning broke Detroit's string of defeats today and produced a 4-to-2 victory over the Yankees.

Both Vernon Gomes and Vic Sorrell pitched nice ball, but the Yankee youngster weakened in the late innings while Sorrell appeared to improve as he went along. It was Gomes's first defeat after five victories.

Detroit's winning runs were scored on Hayworth's third hit, Sorrell's sacrifice, a triple by Johnson and a squeeze bunt by Walker.

MACKS BOW TO INDIANS BY 6 TO 4

Shores' Wildness and Errors Allow Tribe to Triumph.

CLEVELAND, June 14 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics lost a 6-to-4 decision to the Cleveland Indians today, through fielding errors and wildness of Pitcher Bill Shores. It was the first Indian win over the Athletics this season.

Leading 4 to 3 in their eighth, Shores, who had succeeded McDonald in the fifth, walked Porter. Burnett was safe on Bishop's poor throw and Averill singled to fill the bases.

Shores then forced Porter across with the tying run by walking Morgan. Hodapp hit to Foxx, at third, and two more runs scored when the erstwhile first baseman threw wildly past first.

The defeat left Philadelphia but three games ahead of Washington, which continued a winning streak to the nine-straight mark.

Giants Gain 2d Place By Beating Reds, 3-2

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 14 (A.P.).—The New York Giants went into sole possession of second place in the National League pennant chase today by nosing out the Cincinnati Reds, 3-2, while Chicago was dropping one to Boston. The Giants won out in the ninth when Vergez opened with a double, took third on Hogan's single and scored when Allen, batting for Marshall, singled. The Reds had men on first and third with none out in their half of the ninth, but Carl Hubbell, who relieved Willard Morrell on the hill for the Giants, fanned Asbjornson and forced Clyde Beck to line to Jackson, doubling Cullop off first.

A scheduled second game was called in the second, because of rain.

MANOR GOLF PLAY STARTS TOMORROW WITH 490 ENTRANTS

Qualifications To Require Two Days

Pitt, Burnett Among Classy Field Seeking Honors.

Many Threesomes Arranged to Help Speed Play.

THE second annual tournament of the Manor Club will begin tomorrow morning with an entry list aggregating 490 names. An effort will be made to qualify this large field in two days, many of the contestants being arranged in threesomes. Even under this system, however, the play will continue on each day until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, with the possibility that lanterns will be necessary in case of a play-off for places in the first sixteen.

Harry G. Pitt, of the home club, and recent winner of the Indian Spring and Columbia invitation events, is entered, as well as Volney Burnett, medalist in the Columbia qualifying round.

Last D. C. Tourney Until Next Fall.

Practically all of the golfers who have competed in club tournaments this season are included among the competitors in this event, which is the last to be held until Bannockburn comes upon the stage next fall.

The pairings and times of play are as follows:

The mummy of a Peruvian prince, owned by E. D. LeCheminant, is no larger than a small doll. At the death of the prince his body was subjected to a mummifying process which caused it to shrink until it was but 6½ inches high. Tribes in Peru frequently mummify their dead by a secret process, shrinking them to a doll's size. Sometimes the mummy dolls are given to their children to play with.

A 5-inch mummy, similar to that owned by LeCheminant, is in the British Museum.

—Washington Park Selections—

WASHINGTON PARK RACE TRACK, Chicago, June 14.—The program at Washington Park tomorrow attracted a quantity of thoroughbreds in many of the contests, but little quality among the numerous entries. However, the fifth event, an allowance affair for 3-year-olds and upward, a test over the 1-mile distance, will serve as the feature. Eight fleet milers will contest the $1,600 purse.

G. Collins' shifty filly, THISTLE FYRN, which scored easily in her Chicago debut, turned in a dismal effort last start, but the daughter of My Play is nicely suited by the conditions and figures to annex the purse in the feature. JOEY BIBB, a double winner at the meeting, is dropping 7 pounds off his last victorious start. With this light impost, the Van Meter color bearer should force the pace. ROCKET GLARE, from the S. W. Labrot Stable, has been rested up since the Pimlico session, and, with a final workout of 9 furlongs in 1:57 2-5, should save the show.

FIRST RACE—PLAYING, from the J. F. Schore string, figures to graduate. CHICAGO BELLE has trained briskly for her debut, and, with a three-panel spin in 0:35 1-5, appears ready to contest the issue. SUSU has shown improvement and rates the show call.

SECOND RACE—PEGGY J. appears to hold an edge over her rivals. In her previous effort she was blocked, and with better racing luck has only to beat WEE DROP to gain the award. The latter weakened over the mile and an eighth route, but at the shorter distance here should go well. BEAUTIFUL DOLL, from the T. E. Nash string, is fatvored for the show.

THIRD RACE—ADOBE POST, from the Knebelkamp and Morris string, appears admirably placed here. J. Leiter's promising filly, PRINCESS IVRE, was beaten a head in her previous effort and on that splendid performance must be given consideration. JULIE did not fancy the sloppy track last start and under suitable conditions appears best of the others for the minor award.

FOURTH RACE—The C. E. Davison's NO MORE, winner of his last two starts at this track, is well suited by the conditions and is given the call. KARL EITEL has turned in some fast trials for his seasonal debut but may need this to put him on edge. However, the Coughlin racer should force the pace. RAY BLADES raced consistently in recent efforts and should save the minor award.

SIXTH RACE — TRANSGRESSION, from the E. F. Prichard Stable, was beaten a nose in her last start and, with that effort as a conditioner, should be able to take the measure of her nineteen opponents. WINNIE JO, carrying the silks of Mrs. A. R. Smith, appears to hold a slight advantage for the place, with BRUSH fancied above the others.

SEVENTH RACE—NEGODALE, a superior muddler in J. Reynolds' barn, raced consistently at the Downs and appears ready for his campaign on the Chicago circuit. CHANCELLOR, owned by C. H. Trotter, scored handily last start, is favored to furnish stern opposition. SEA ROCKET is favored by the route and should get into the money.

TAKOMA TIGERS RETAIN MONTGOMERY LEAD

Chevy Chase Defeated by 5-4 Score

Marosey Stops Threat of Rivals, Fans 14, Allows 5 Hits.

German Bakery Beats Old Colony, 13-3, Gains 2d Place.

DESPITE the strenuous objections of the Chevy Chase Grays, the Takoma Tigers still rule the roost in the Montgomery County Section of The Post's Capital City League by virtue of their 5-4 victory over the Grays on the latter's diamond yesterday. A large sized crowd witnessed the game. The German's Bakery nine was benefited by the Grays' loss as they gained second place by downing the Old Colony aggregation 13-3.

The battle for the leadership of the circuit was all that advance reports had predicted. The teams fought tooth and nail right up until the very end. The Chevy Chase crew jumped on Marosey for two runs in the opening frame, and added another to this in the third.

Tiger Start Scoring In Fifth.

The Tigers failed to dent the scoring pan until round five, when a pair of runners came home. Two runs by the champions in the seventh and one by the challengers brought the teams on par, but not for long, for the Takoma delegation came right back in the eighth to push over the winning run.

Ross, who started for Chevy Chase, acquitted himself well, but was removed in favor of a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning. He granted his opponents only 7 hits during his stay on the mound. Marosey, his opponent, was in even better form, allowing only 5 hits and fanning 14. Wilson's triple was the feature clout of the contest.

The Baker Boys' win over the Old Colony nine was accomplished with surprising ease. Simpson, who held the Colonists to a trio of safe markers, also had a great day with the willow, connecting for three hits. Fry also played an important role in the downfall of the Laundry Lads. Fitzgerald, of the victors, socked a home run, and this feat was duplicated by Polk, of the opposing team.

Jockey Turner Seriously Hurt in Workout Spill

Chicago, June 14 (A.P.).—Jockey Charles Turner, 18, 511 Winkler street, Louisville, Ky., was seriously injured today and the horse he was riding, Bob's Luck, was killed in a collision at Washington Park today.

Turner suffered a number of broken ribs, one of which punctured his right lung. The other rider, Willie Jones, an exercise boy, and the horse, Machete, owned by Theodore Miller, Louisville, escaped unscathed.

Turner was sitting astride Bob's Luck, owned by Mrs. L. Swikert, of Highland Park, in front of the grandstand while Machete came down the stretch at a fast pace. Bob's Luck suddenly darted across the track and the two collided. Both riders were thrown. Bob's Luck falling on Turner. The horse's neck was broken.

BETHESDA FIREMEN WIN.

The Bethesda Fire Department downed the Army Medicos in a well played game on the Marylanders' field yesterday, winning by a score of 5 to 4. Frisbie, second baseman for the winners, made two double plays unassisted. He was also among the leading hitters. Woods shone for the Medicos.

D. C. RED SOX WIN.

The Washington Red Six journeyed to Frederick, Md., yesterday, and remained just long enough to hang a 14-to-7 defeat on the locals. It was the fifteenth win of the season for the Sox. The Frederick aggregation put up a battle until the fifth inning, when the Washington nine laid down a barage of its that put the game on the ice. Booker, Jenkins and Wolf led the winning attack, while Gardner displayed the keenest eye among the home team.

Dr. Williams, Coach At Minneapolis, Dies

Minneapolis, June 14 (A.P.).—Dr. Henry L. Williams, for 22 seasons head football coach at the University of Minesota, and originator of the "Minnesota shift," long famous in gridiron technique, died here today from heart disease after a long illness.

Robins Sell Flowers Back to Cardinals

New York, June 14 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn National League Club today announced the sale of D'Arcy (Jake) Flowers, utility infielder, to the St. Louis Cardinals. It was a cash transaction. Flowers is to join the Cardinals immediately.

The deal sends Flowers back to the club from which he came to Brooklyn. In 1927 the Cardinals traded him to Brooklyn for Bob McGraw, a right-handed pitcher.

Tourbillon, Choice, Wins French Classic

Chantilly, France, June 14 (A.P.).—Marcel Boussac's Tourbillon, by Ksar out of Durban, won the ninety-second running of the classic Prix du Jockey Club Purse, worth more than 84,000, here today. James Schwob's Brueldur was second and Count de Rivaud's Barneveldt third.

The race, for 3-year-old colts, over a course of 1½ miles, drew a record crowd to the track. The winner, a favorite, paid 15.50 francs for 10.

Powell, Gibner Win Third Corps Net Berths

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., June 14—By eliminating all rivals in the series of games held last week at Fort Hoyle, Md., Lieut. F. E. Powell, Quartermaster Corps, of Fort Hoyle, and Lieut. Herbert Gibner, Sixth Field Artillery, of the same post, will represent the Third Corps Area in the Army Championship Tennis Tournament which will open on the Columbia Country Club courts, Washington, June 23.

These two players have yet to decide the corps area championship in a series of matches to be played this coming week. By taking three sets each from their opponents both qualified for the finals in last week's concluding series in which Lieut. Powell won from Lieut. Albert Watson, of Fort Myer, a member of last year's West Point tennis team, and Lieut. Gibner defeated Lieut. Alexander Stone, also of Fort Myer.

DEL RAY TRIUMPHS.

Alexandria, Va., June 14—Del Ray A. C. won from the Columbia Cleaners and Dyers, of Washington, by 8-2 here this afternoon at Edward Duncan Field. Kitty Curtis, Del Ray ace, held the invaders to four scattered bingles.

SURGEON GENERAL OF WASHINGTON'S ARMY IS HONORED

Tablet on Former Home of Dr. William Brown Is Given to Public.

HOUSE IN ALEXANDRIA INSPECTED BY CROWD

Descendant Officiates at Ceremony; Speakers Pay Tribute to Service.

Impressive ceremonies marked the unveiling yesterday at 212 South Fairfax street, Alexandria, of a bronze tablet placed on the old home of Dr. William Brown, physician general and director of hospitals of the Continental Army during the American Revolution.

The exercises, which were under the auspices of the Washington Society of Alexandria, and presided over by William B. McGroarty, its president, were also in the nature of a tribute to the memory of a World War hero who lost his life in the service of his country—Lieut. Wilmarth Brown, a great-great-great-grandson of Dr. Brown, who was killed in action at Vaux, France, and was cited posthumously by the War Department for exceptionally gallant action and bravery.

Addresses Laud Career.

Addresses were delivered by Gen. Robert U. Patterson, surgeon general of the Army, who paid tribute to his distinguished predecessor; by Justice Josiah Van Orsdel, of the Court of Appeals and past president of the National Society of the Sons of the Revolution, and an address prepared by Dr. J. Allison Hodges, president of the Medical Society of Virginia, who was unable to be present owing to illness, was read by Dr. Llewellyn Powell, of Alexandria, representing the Medical Society of Virginia.

The flag which concealed the tablet from view was that which was draped over the casket of Lieut. Wilmarth Brown when his body was brought from France to its last resting place in Arlington National Cemetery, and at the conclusion of the exercises it was drawn back by Alexander Gustavus Brown 3d, of Richmond, another great-great-great-grandson of Dr. Brown. Mrs. Bessie Wilmarth Gahn, of Washington, a great-great-great-granddaughter of Dr. Brown, was the official hostess of the occasion.

After the ceremonies, the house, which is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Cael, formerly of Valley Forge, Pa., was thrown open to guests, who were permitted to view the interior, only slightly changed from its original condition.

Inscription on Tablet.

The inscription on the tablet, which was erected by the descendants of Dr. Brown and prepared by the War Department reads:

Residence of Dr. William Brown, M. D.
Born 1748 Died 1799.
Physician General and Director of Hospitals, Middle Department, Continental Army.
Charter Member Society of Cincinnati, Author First American Pharmacopeia, President of Board of Trustees of Alexandria Academy at Gen. Washington's Request.
Personal Physician for Many Years and Intimate Friend of Gen. Washington, Who Visited in This House.
Tablet Erected in 1931 by His Descendants.
Inscription by War Department.
Ceremonies Conducted by the Washington Society of Alexandria,
June 14, 1931.

The American Legion Drum Corps acted as escort to the distinguished guests, and a bugler from that organization sounded "To the Colors" as the flag was drawn back exposing the tablet to view for the first time.

Concert Will Open V. F. W. Conclave

Prize-Winning Band Is to Be Heard Here Next Thursday.

The Overseas Military Band, Drum and Bugle Corps of the District of Columbia Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will give a concert Thursday night at Fourteenth and Kenyon streets northwest.

The concert will follow a parade, officially opening the organization's twelfth annual encampment which will continue through Saturday.

The band, awarded first prize at three national conventions, will render the following program:

St. John's School Scholarships Given

Four Graduates of Eighth Grade Win Four-Year Course in Contest.

Winners of the scholarship contest conducted by St. John's High School Saturday were announced yesterday as follows:

First, J. Brendan Casey, 905 K street northeast, of the Holy Name School; second, Francis Curtin, 636 Second street northeast, of the St. Joseph's School; third, James R. Brown, 4404 New Hampshire avenue northwest, of the St. Gabriel's School; fourth, Charles H. Fugitt, 521 Shepherd street northwest, also of the St. Gabriel's School.

The winners, graduates from the eighth grade in the parochial schools, receive a four-year free scholarship in the St. John's High School.

Police Asked to Find Young Girl.

Police were asked yesterday to search for Julia Teresi, 16 years old, of Sixth street, near H street northwest, missing from her home since Saturday morning. Her parents told police she was last seen in company with a young man.

DR. MELTON TO TAKE WEST VIRGINIA POST

Pastor Here Will Become Head of Missions Work at Charleston.

Dr. B. H. Melton, pastor of the Ninth Street Christian Church, announced to his congregation yesterday that he has accepted the call extended by the West Virginia Missionary Society to become its State superintendent of missions at Charleston. He will commence his new duties September 1.

The West Virginia Christian Missionary Society, the State organization of the church, has under its supervision 160 churches with a membership of approximately 25,000 and with a Sunday School enrollment of 26,000. Bethany College, located near Wheeling, W. V., for more than a century has trained ministers and missionaries.

Members of the State Board of the society who extended the call to Dr. Melton are L. H. Brittin, Chester; E. E. White, Logan; W. H. Fields, Wheeling; H. L. Wiggins, Wellsburg; R. T. Beck, Bethany; W. H. Sheffer, W. E. Earl and J. W. Yoho, Huntington; B. S. Johnson, Bluefield; Dr. Cloyd Goodnight, president of Bethany College; A. C. Young, Morgantown; C. N. Jarrett and Frank Donaldson, Charleston, and J. D. Reynolds, Clarksburg. Dr. Ritchie Ware, Beckley, is president of the State convention and the Rev. C. N. Jarrett, of the Boyd Memorial Church, Charleston, is chairman of the State Board.

Dr. Melton, in Washington eleven years, succeeding Dr. E. B. Bagby as pastor of the Columbia Heights Christian Church, will soon close his sixth year as pastor of the Ninth Street Christian Church. A graduate of the University of Kentucky, he did post graduate work at Harvard and for two years was president of the Disciples State Convention in Maryland and the District of Columbia. Mrs. Melton is a graduate of the Kinsey Seminary, and did postgraduate work at Syracuse University.

Dr. Melton also is a member of the North American Commission of the Ministry which is now raising $8,000,000 for pensions for ministers and missionaries. For the last 20 years he has been a trustee of Lynchburg College, Va.

Capital Sea Scouts' Training Ship Lauded

Thomas J. Keane, National Sea Scout director, in discussing Sea Scout equipment recently paid tribute to the Argo, owned by the District of Columbia Boy Scout Council.

"There are many picturesque ships now owned or chartered by the Sea Scouts," he said. "Probably the best known of them is the training ship of the Washington (D. C.) Sea Scouts, the old Argo, 79-foot, 38-ton yawl, once famous as the training ship for students at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis."

Cab Driver's Story Of Holdup Probed

Forced From Car in Fight, Man Opens Fire With Robber's Gun.

Roger E. Blaine, a taxi driver, of North Carolina avenue near Fourteenth streets northeast, yesterday told police he was held up and robbed at the point of a gun by two men, who entered his taxi at Tenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest Saturday night and asked to be taken to Cheverly, Md.

When about a mile from their destination on the Defense highway, Blaine declared, one of the men produced a pistol and ordered him to stop. After taking $51 from his pockets, the men told him to get out of the machine. Blaine said he grappled with the man holding the gun and wrested the weapon from him. He was struck on the head with a blunt instrument and, as he fell to the ground, the men drove off with his cab. Blaine declared he fired three shots at the fleeing car, then, in a dazed condition, walked several miles to a telephone. The taxicab was found early yesterday 2 miles from the scene of the alleged holdup. The body had been pierced by three bullets.

Police and officials of Blaine's company are investigating the story.

Auto Tires Stolen From Store.

Thieves who broke the glass in a second-story window of Bailey's Tire Store, 2250 Sherman avenue northwest, Saturday stole several tires. The theft was reported by Roy Grigsby, 3100 Connecticut avenue northwest, for Wilson Bailey, owner of the store.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

PRESIDENT TWITCHELL'S BACCALAUREATE.

GENTLEMEN of the Graduating Classes: You have completed four years of study in dear old Gowanus and are about to go forth to carve a career in a cold and practical world. You could not have chosen a more inopportune time for the undertaking. Were the college alive to its responsibilities it would keep you here another year or two until the outlook becomes a little more cheerful. Those of you whose parents still have money face no immediate terrors, but my heart goes out to the boys of 1931 who must find a way to make a living without delay.

• • • •

There are times, and this is one of them, when I have my doubts whether I am carrying out a necessary college function or merely contributing to the unemployment situation. For four long years, gentlemen, you have been preparing yourselves to take part in the battle of life, and now when you are ready to cast off your initialed sweaters, put away your meerschaum pipes, abandon your ukuleles and leap into the fray, what do you find? An armistice!

• • • •

It has been my custom on this occasion to say that the world is calling to you. Today I frankly admit I hear nothing but static. And even that is negative.

• • • •

SOME of you gentlemen have studied with the idea of a career in business, trade and finance; more's the pity! A new recruit in these fields is at the moment about as indispensable as a bicycle bell on the Spirit of St. Louis. Some of you plan to enter the medical profession, and for you I can only hope there are people who can still afford to be sick. Others will go forth to be engineers, lawyers, chart makers, book reviewers, Tom Thumb golf attendants and radio crooners, a truly depressing outlook.

• • • •

But as I stand here adding to the overproduction of gas, nothing tears at my heart like the realization that in this graduating class there are, as always, a certain number of boys destined to become bond salesmen. I can imagine no field where the prospect is so bleak, unless it be in the business of designing neckties for Mahatma Gandhi. When I think of a young man trying to sell securities in these days I go weak all over.

• • • •

Lest I seem too gloomy, let me say that I am aware there are some members of this class for whom the immediate future is not dark. They will, I know, get work and go on to fame and fortune. I refer to the students who during their college years have shown ability as southpaw pitchers, radio tenors and dance orchestra leaders.

• • • •

Come what may, however, your years have not been wasted. You have absorbed certain invaluable things that will be a satisfaction throughout your lives. Don't ask me to name them. That is my story and I am paid to stick to it. I pause and call attention to our outstanding graduates. Where are they standing? And how much are they out. Let us not be material.

• • • •

And so, gentlemen, I wish you luck as you go out into the world. You will need it. And if you have enjoyed this hour you may write Station WXYZ and ask for a tube of Weemish's Nail Polish. I thank you.

ONCE AGAIN, AND A LITTLE SLOWER!

"I AM fascinated by the childishness, the charm, the beauty of American women," said his Imperial Highness the Grand Duke Alexander. "I was first fascinated 44 years ago. It was in Shanghai, China—but no, wait—wait till the publication of my memoirs."

"'No—I want to hear it now!'

"'Very well, listen. They may be cowboys in the morning, riding horseback in the park and all, but in the evening they are transformed—chic—exquisite—because they are clever enough to be that most important thing, truly feminine.'"—Interview in New York Journal.

LABOR UNION OPENS EXPOSITION TONIGHT

Big Parade Will Inaugurate Week's Fair; Proceeds Go to Memorial.

The Central Labor Union exposition and fair for the benefit of the District of Columbia World War Memorial will open tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Union Terminal Market place, Fifth street and Florida avenue northeast.

A feature attraction will be the burial of "Fernandow" in a coffin below ground where he will be buried for 100 hours. Electric lights and microphones will be buried with him and a periscope will be inserted into the grave so the public can view the entombed man.

A parade will open the exposition. Headed by Frank W. Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, the parade will include more than 500 motor floats and exhibits; 3,000 persons representing the Gold Star Mothers and other civic and patriotic organizations and nine military bands.

The parade will organize shortly before 6 p. m. on Fourteenth and Fifteen streets adjacent to Florida avenue northeast and will move through northeast Washington, circling back on Florida avenue to the fair grounds at 7:30 o'clock.

Opening addresses will be made by Mr. Morrison, R. A. Dickson, Frank W. Lee and John Colpoys.

Two features of the free attraction program at the fair will be 90-foot dives into a tank by Miss Bench Bentum and her troupe of five girls and two men. The second sensational act will be trapeze performances by Valencia.

In addition, more than 100 local organizations will have booths at the fair, the proceeds of which will be turned over to the labor union.

Every evening during the week's ganization nights. Thursday night, ganizations nights. Thursday night, an antiaircraft demonstration will be given by the 260th Post Artillery under direction of Maj. Walter W. Burns.

BOOSTERS ARE TOLD OF EFFORTS TO BUY BUS TERMINAL SITE

Morris Cafritz Sees Early Building of Station if Land Is Obtained.

PARTY ON SOUTHLAND PUTS IN AT ANNAPOLIS

District's New Appointee as Traffic Director Talks of Stolen Autos.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Annapolis, Md., June 14.—Efforts are being made by a number of interests to secure a downtown site in Washington for a large bus terminal, it was learned today from members of the Washington Merchants and Manufacturers Association who are aboard the steamer Southland, on the third day of their annual cruise.

Morris Cafritz, one of the leading real estate men in Washington, in an interview with The Post correspondent, revealed that he had been approached by a number of persons who are desirous of obtaining a site for the terminal. Mr. Cafritz could not reveal the identity of any of these persons.

Site Is Chief Obstacle.

The principal obstacle in the path of the terminal, Mr. Cafritz says, is the difficulty in acquiring a site. All property in the downtown area, where the terminal should be located, is encumbered by legal and other entanglements, he said. On several occasions, he revealed, a deal for the terminal site has looked as if it were on the point of being consummated, when some complication arose which shattered all hopes of getting the property.

Mr. Cafritz said that if a site could be obtained, building of the terminal would no doubt go ahead without delay. Mr. Cafritz said that he was not personally interested in erecting the terminal, but would like to see one built in the central downtown area, preferably on Pennsylvania avenue.

The spotlight was also turned on the traffic situation by W. A. Van Duzer, newly appointed traffic director of the District, when he revealed that he is working on an elaborate system of checking stolen machines which will be introduced soon after he takes office. The objective, he said, is to eliminate the reputation of Washington being a "dumping ground" for stolen automobiles.

Will Require Title Proof.

The file system, now being worked out by Mr. Van Duzer, together with the new rule which will force all automobile owners to produce titles for their cars before they can get licenses, will enable officers to trace every stolen car that comes to Washington, Mr. Van Duzer said. This trail will go as far back as the factory from which the car came, on to the agent to which it was delivered, to the first person who bought it, and so on.

The Boosters spent the morning in Annapolis. Some of the party toured the Naval Academy, while others, including all newspaper men aboard, attended mass at St. Mary's Catholic Church. The ship sailed back into Chesapeake Bay in the afternoon. An elaborate entertainment is planned for Sunday night. The boat will dock in Washington tomorrow morning.

Three Women and Man Hurt as Car Overturns

Four persons, three of them women, were hurt yesterday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding was overturned in an attempt to pass another car on the Frederick pike, near Clarksburg, Md.

Those injured were Mrs. Alexander H. Wnykoop, of the New Amsterdam Apartments; Miss Helen Daily, of the same adress; Miss Corine Johnson, of the Falkstone Courts, and Mr. Wynkoop. Miss Daily and Miss Johnson received bruises about the body and Mrs. Wynkoop injuries to her ribs. Mr. Wynkoop suffered a wrenched arm. All were treated by a physician at Gaithersburg.

Faster Air Mail Time To Colombia Effected

A saving of two days over the previous air mail time between the United States and Colombia, a substantial reduction in air mail rates, and greatly increased service will be effected by an agreement between the United States Post Office Department and the Colombian postal administration for air mail, which goes into effect today.

Under the new agreement all air mail will now travel directly from any point in Colombia to North America through the cooperation of the Pan-American Airways System, the Pan-American-Grace Airways, and the Colombian National Air Mail System. A uniform rate of 35 cents a half ounce has been established for air mail from this country to any point in Colombia.

Driver Held as Car Hits Another and Hurts Man

A reckless driving charge was placed against Kenneth Alvey, 27, of Bryant street, near North Capitol, northeast, yesterday as the aftermath of an accident early yesterday morning when, according to Eighth Precinct police, Alvey's car crashed into a parked machine in Barry place northwest, near Georgia avenue and then struck a pedestrian, slightly injuring him.

Alvey, his brother, James W. Alvey, 24, of the same address, and James F. Mitchell, 23, of Fourteenth street northwest near Otis street, also received slight injuries as a result of the accident, all three being treated for bruises and lacerations at Freedmen's hospital. The pedestrian, Samuel Clemmons, colored, 26, of Barry place northwest, was also treated for bruises and lacerations.

Auto Wheels Collapse, Injuring Young Driver

Serious injuries were sustained yesterday by Sol Shud, 19 years old, of 2240 Virginia avenue northwest, when the front wheels of the automobile he was driving collapsed about 5 miles beyond Marlboro.

The youth was on his way to an outing at a watering place on South River in Maryland when the accident happened. When the wheels collapsed his automobile overturned. Shud was removed to Emergency Hospital was a broken leg, fractured pelvis and internal injuries. His condition was described as serious.

Woman Is Hurt in Fall As Horse Takes Hurdle

Falling as her horse was about to take a hurdle in Rock Creek Park yesterday morning, May Francis, 23 years old, a guest at the Hamilton Hotel, sustained bruises and abrasions to the left side.

The young woman, who was riding near Ridge road when the mishap occurred, was brought to the hotel by a passing motorist who observed the accident. She was treated by Dr. E. L. Mason, the hotel physician, who said her condition was not serious.

Woman's Cry Frightens Man Climbing in House

Awakened by a slight noise early yesterday morning, Julia S. Eldred, 1232 Sixteenth street northwest, told police she saw a man about to climb into a rear window. At her exclamation the man fled, she said.

The intruder had removed a screen from the window. The woman was unable to give a description of the man.

Man Practicing Golf Cuts His Sister's Lip

Sam Goldman forgot to shout "Fore!" yesterday afternoon while he was taking practice golf swings in front of his home at 4608 Iowa avenue northwest. As a result, his sister, Ann Goldman, 21, received a badly cut upper lip when Sam's club struck her.

In the excitement that followed the youth's unfortunate slice, Fire Rescue apparatus and Emergency Hospital ambulance were called. The young woman was treated at Garfield Hospital and later sent home.
